From The Savannah Press*—"The Atlanta Constitution has taken up its summer burden and is once again printing it black and strong that Georgia's school teachers must be paid. Really, this old scandal has gone far enough. Year after year the press of the state laments the shame that the rich state of Georgia is in arrears in its payments to the public school teachers, and year after year the legislature meets, looks sad and returns home to think the matter over. ¶ Six months' pay is again due the Georgia school teachers. What sort of behavior is this from a state which believes in education and would maintain correct standards of fair and honest dealings among its people? ¶ The Constitution is right in calling the settlement of this debt 'Georgia's first duty.' It is right in printing this reminder across its first page."

HOT FIRE DRIVES MELLEN TO LEAVE RAILROAD THRONE

The Man Who Controlled All Transportation in the New England States Has Relinquished His Position.

VAST CONSOLIDATION MAY BE RIVEN ASUNDER

Mellen Charged With Gross Mismanagement and Is Under Indictment for Violation of Federal Law.

New York, July 17.—Charles S. Mellen today tendered his resignation as president of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company and all its allied or subsidiary lines, including the various railways, trolley lines and water lines which had become part of the New Haven system under his management.

Announcement of Mr. Mellen's resignation, which is to take effect at the pleasure of the New Haven board but "in no event later than October 1 next," followed a long meeting of the directors, most of whom, including Wm. Rockefeller and J. P. Morgan, were present.

The brief announcement of Mr. Mellen's proposed retirement was the only official statement issued. None of the directors would supplement by so much as a word, and Mr. Mellen steadfastly denied himself to all interviewers.

Some of the more prominent members of the board earnestly urged Mr. Mellen to reconsider his action, but apparently without avail. In railroad and financial circles Mr. Mellen's decision will excite no surprise.

Mellen Chosen by Morgan.

Charles Sunger Mellen, whose recent management of the New Haven road has given rise to considerable criticism, became president of that system in October of 1903, resigning from the presidency of the Northern Pacific railway at the request of the late J. P. Morgan, who regarded Mr. Mellen as the man best fitted to reorganize the more or less chaotic transportation lines of the New England states.

Mr. Mellen's immediate predecessor, John M. Hall, had managed the road with all the conservatism which marked the administration of corporate affairs, especially in New England, during the previous decade. Mr. Mellen's advent was the signal for a vast scheme of consolidation, embracing not only the Boston and Maine and Maine Central railroads, but all the leading steamship lines between New York and Boston and intermediate points, as well as various and numerous trolley lines in Connecticut, Massachusetts and New Hampshire. The capitalization of the New Haven system increased enormously under the continuous outlays accruing from the acquisitions

Mismanagement Alleged.

The steady decline of New Haven shares in the local and Boston stock markets has been a matter of comment for several years. New Haven, which for many years sold at and above 200 and for a long period paid 8 per cent dividends and recently went below par in anticipation of a cut in the dividend, which was reduced to 6 per cent.

Alleged mismanagement of the New Haven road and several fatal wrecks, costing many lives, finally resulted in definite action, and a committee of New England stockholders, led by George Von L. Meyer, former secretary of the navy, was organized to make an investigation of the road's affairs. That committee's experts are

MERRITT ASKED FOR RESIGNATION?

May Quit as Head of Battle Hill Sanitarium Following the Charges of Jesse Shelton.

The report that Dr. W. S. Merritt, superintendent, has been urged to resign as head of the Battle Hill sanitarium for tuberculosis patients, leaked out Thursday, despite reticence of Mayor James G. Woodward and officials of the board of health to discuss the matter.

A complaint to Mayor Woodward by Jesse Shelton, a former patient, that he was roughly treated by Superintendent Merritt is said to be the cause of friction between hospital head and city officials who have supervisory jurisdiction over the institution.

It is positively known that following the Shelton complaint and one or two others to Mayor Woodward, Dr. J. P. Kennedy, city health officer, and Dr. Claude Smith, city bacteriologist, were urged to take the complaints up with Superintendent Merritt. Two conferences were held. One in the office of Mayor Woodward, and the other in the office of City Bacteriologist Smith.

Judge John S. Candler, chairman of the committee on hospitals and charities, confirmed the conference. It is said that the second conference. It is said that he agreed with Mayor Woodward that it was necessary to make a change at the sanitarium.

Denial From Merritt.

Superintendent Merritt denied to The Constitution, Thursday night, that he had been asked to resign.

"I have considered resigning my position for some time," Superintendent Merritt informed the reporter. "The city officials seem to think that I am not competent to manage the sanitarium, and I feel that under the present city charter and in view of the financial condition of the city I cannot do full justice to the work."

Superintendent Merritt admitted that Doctors Kennedy and Smith conferred with him about the Shelton complaint. But he vigorously denied that he had been asked to resign. Denials were also made by Doctors Kennedy and Smith. Mayor Woodward admitted that he turned the Shelton complaint over to the health officers and asked them to make an investigation.

"Was Dr. Merritt asked to resign?" the mayor was asked.

"Something along those lines," he replied hesitatingly. "I think every one agreed that it would be best to make a change."

Mayor Woodward stated that it was his understanding that Superintendent Merritt would resign from the sanitarium about August 30.

Shelton's Complaint.

Shelton's complaint to Mayor Woodward was made through a relative living in Atlanta. From the meager details it appears that the youth was a convalescent patient, and allowed the privileges of the recreation room. It was charged that Superintendent Merritt severely reprimanded Shelton because he sat too close to one of the female patients. Shelton, it is said, retorted rather hotly, and was informed that he must obey the rules of the institution or leave. He left. He went at night, and soon after complained. Superintendent Merritt refused, according to reports which are verified by his own statement, to allow Shelton to return to the hospital. He asserts that Shelton was abusive.

Judge Candler, who is chairman of the hospital committee of council, would not discuss the matter except to state that a complaint had been made and that Drs. Kennedy and Smith hadh een instructed to take the matter up with the superintendent.

Superintendent Merritt has been in charge of the sanitarium under three administrations. He came here from Baltimore where he had charge of a sanitarium.

Despite the handicap because of lack of funds, he has made the sanitarium one of the finest in the south. Recently he courted an investigation of complaints made through the Anti-Tuberculosis society. The investigating committee exonerated him. It also commended his managerial ability.

The salary of the superintendent is $1,800 a year. When an increase was asked for recently the finance committee turned it down. Doctor Merritt informed the committee at the time of the refusal of the request that he would be forced to resign.

DIAZ SENT BY HUERTA AS AN ENVOY TO JAPAN

Mexico City, July 17.—General Felix Diaz has been named as special ambassador to Japan to express the thanks of Mexico to Japan for the latter's participation in Mexico's centennial in 1910.

By appointing General Diaz to this mission President Huerta appears to have eliminated him, temporarily at least, from the politics of Mexico. He is expected to leave on Saturday. It is doubtful if he will be able to return in time to manage a campaign for the presidency as the election has been called for October 26.

There has never been any secret about the desire of General Diaz to stand for the presidency.

The departure of Felix Diaz from Mexico will remove the third of the three big figures in the revolt against Madero. General Reyes was killed in action and General Mondragon was sent to Europe as a delegate to the exposition at Ghent.

PROHIS START CRUSADE ON MACON LOCKER CLUBS

Law and Order League Obtains Injunctions Against Two Clubs and Sheriff Makes Raids.

Macon, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Macon's law and order league began its campaign today to rid Macon of saloons and locker clubs, under the plan used by Hon. Seaborn Wright in Rome.

Application was made by the league to Judge Mathews, of the superior court, for an injunction to restrain the Teutonia club, in Wall street alley; Ed Cassidy's saloon, on Cotton avenue, and Charles Bekakes' saloon, opposite the Southern railway depot, from operating. Immediately after the application was made raids were made by the sheriff on each of the three places. At the Teutonia club whisky was seized, and whisky was also found in the Cassidy saloon. Only beer was found at Bekakes' place.

The petition of the league asks that the three places be closed permanently, and Judge Mathews has cited the proprietors to appear on August 1 and show cause why they should not be permanently enjoined from operating. Upon the outcome of these cases depends the future operations of the law and order league. If the club and saloons are closed by the court, then the same steps will be taken against every other club and saloon in Macon.

The application for injunction is based on the contention that the clubs and saloons are a nuisance. Attorney R. D. Feagin has been engaged by the league to conduct the prosecution.

The law and order league was organized several weeks ago, and regular meetings have been held since that time, where the work to be carried out has been planned. It is said that the league not only plans to fight the clubs and saloons, but will go after other kinds of vice alleged to be prevalent here, including the restricted district of the city.

ANGLO-SAXONS LAUDED BY AMBASSADOR PAGE

London, July 17.—The Anglo-Saxon club at its banquet tonight had as its guest of honor the American ambassador, Walter H. Page. Earl Grey, former governor general of Canada, presided, while among the guests were the lord mayor and the sheriffs of London and Lieutenant General Sir Robert Baden-Powell.

In reply to the toast of Earl Grey, Ambassador Page dwelt upon the great prerogative of the Anglo-Saxon race—leadership. He said that every president of the United States had been dominantly of English or Scotch blood, while the overwhelming majority of mayors, members of congress and presidents of educational institutions in America bore names of English, Irish or Scotch origin.

GARRISON PRAISES FORT M'PHERSON

Secretary of War and Party Are Entertained on Brief Inspection Trip to Fort in Atlanta.

Atlanta Viewed in a Day.

"I would not say Atlanta is a city of the north, or south, or east, or west. It is a truly cosmopolitan city. It is alive. It is throbbing wit hactivity. This was my first visit here. And I was greatly pleased."—Secretary of War L. M. Garrison.

"I have ben in Atlanta before, but I was surprised at the wonderful changes. Atlanta is a great city. I know of no city of its size in the country which can surpass it for enterprise."—Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff, U. S. A.

Secretary of War Garrison's favorable inspection of Fort McPherson yesterday seemed to indicate that it will be retained as a brigade post. This was the secretary's first visit to Atlanta, and the first stop made on his tour of inspection of the U. S. army posts throughout the country.

Accompanying him were Major General Leonard Wood, chief of staff; Major General J. B. Aleshire, chief of quartermaster corps; Captain S. J. Bayard Schindel, of the general army staff, and W. T. Pedigo, Secretary's Garrison's civilian secretary.

The party arrived in Atlanta direct from Washington early Thursday morning, and breakfasted at the new Hotel Ansley. General R. K. Evans, of the department of the gulf, stationed in Atlanta, and Lieutenant Albert J. Tucker, took them immediately to Fort McPherson, where Colonel J. T. Van Orsdale, commander of the Seventeenth infantry, personally escorted them about the garrison until 11 o'clock, when an informal reception was given on Colonel Van Orsdale's veranda, all of the post officers being presented to the officials.

Secretary Garrison and his party inspected every portion of the post, going through the various lines of defense, and seemed greatly interested in the manner in which the garrison is conducted.

Praises Condition of Post.

Whileshe would not commit himself as to the enlargement of the post, he said: "I found that everything at Fort McPherson is admirably conducted. Such a post is a credit to the country." In their inspection tour General Evans and Colonel Van Ors-

CHAMBERS FOR HEAD OF MEDIATION BOARD

President Wilson Selects Men Who Will Arbitrate Railway Wage Disputes.

Washington, July 17.—President Wilson late today selected William L. Chambers, of the District of Columbia, to be commissioner of mediation and conciliation, under the Newlands act, and G. W. Hanger as his assistant. Their names will be sent to the senate tomorrow. The other two members of the new board will be Judge Martin Knapp, of the United States commerce court, and Louis F. Post, assistant secretary of labor.

Immediate confirmation of the president's nominations is expected. Democrats and republicans in both houses of congress joined hands Tuesday to put through promptly the Newlands bill with the hope of averting the threatened strike of 80,000 conductors and trainmen on eastern railroads. The roads and their employees had agreed to submit their wage dispute to the new board of mediation and conciliation.

The board is a permanent institution to aid in the adjustment of disputes between railroads and their employees, and the act creating it provides elaborate machinery for carrying on the work? The commissioner and his assistant will devote all of their time to their new duties, but the other two members of the board will retain their present positions and act as mediators only when called upon.

Judge Chambers, chosen to head the board, was at once time chief justice of the international court at Samoa, and since 1901 has been a member of the Spanish treaty claims commission. He has had considerable experience, however, in arbitrating labor disputes. In 1910, he was selected as a third arbitrator of the controversy between 49 railroads operating in the territory west of Chicago, and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. He was selected for this task by Dr. Charles L. Neill, then commissioner of labor, and Martin A. Knapp, then chairman of the interstate commerce commission, who were the other two mediators under the Erdman act.

Mr. Hanger, who is to be assistant to Judge Chambers, is chief statistician of the bureau of labor statistics, and acting head of the bureau since the resignation of Dr. Neill. He, also, has had much opportunity to familiarize himself with labor controversies. He has been chief statistician of the bureau since 1887.

Judge Knapp is presiding judge of the United States commerce court and for a long time has been identified with arbitration movements on the part of the government. Since the creation of the new board was contemplated, he has been looked as certain to be one of its members.

Mr. Post is the assistant secretary of labor and as an editor and writer has long been an advocate of the single tax and allied reforms. He has been a candidate for office several times on labor tickets.

ROADS AND UNIONS ARE IN DEADLOCK

80,000 Trainmen Will Strike if Roads Insist on Arbitration of Greivances at Same Time as Demands of Men.

New York, July 17.—The 80,000 trainmen and conductors who threaten a strike against the eastern railroads will not agree under any circumstances to have the roads' grievances arbitrated at the same time as the men's demands for better wages under the Newlands amendment to the Erdman act, according to a statement issued tonight by W. G. Lee and A. B. Garretson, presidents, respectively, of the trainmen's and conductors' brotherhoods.

Mr. Lee, in a verbal statement supplementing the formal one, declared that if the railroads persist in their present stand to have their own grievances arbitrated, it is absolutely certain that a strike will follow.

The formal statement of the trainmen was sent as a letter to Elisha Lee, chairman of the conference committee of managers. It was prepared as a result of a meeting of the trainmen's committee of 100 held today to consider the announcement of the roads last night that they intend to have "all questions" incorporated in the agreement to arbitrate.

The trainmen declare in their letter that the railroads, in insisting upon arbitration of their own grievances at this time, could have not selected no surer way of driving the men from the service. The sincerity of the roads is questioned by the employees, who point out that prior to the mediation conference with their president last Monday no intimation was given by the roads that they purposed to air their demands before the federal arbitration body. The present attitude of the roads is characterized in the letter as "a flagrant violation of faith."

Copies of the letter that the trainmen submitted to the roads tonight were mailed to President Wilson, every member in the senate and the house and to all the conferees at the meeting attended by the president.

The employees said tonight that they will wait only for the senate's confirmation of the president's appointments today before insisting upon a conference forthwith, at which they will present their wage demands. If the roads then submit their grievances to the federal board, the men, so they declared, will decline to sign the arbitration stipulation and will strike instead.

Mr. Lee and Mr. Garretson expressed satisfaction at the personnel of the mediation and the conciliation board the president selected. No better appointments could have been made, they said.

URGES COMMITTEE TO GET TOGETHER FOR TAX REFORM

Chairman Thinks That Factions Are Blocking Progress. County Equalization to Be Put in Bill.

NEW SUBCOMMITTEE TO REVISE MEASURE

Representative Akin Reads and Praises Constitution Editorial to Members of Ways and Means Committee.

If the ways and means committee of the house can get together this afternoon, and Chairman Akin is making every effort in his power to get the committee together, the bill reported Wednesday will be so amended as to provide for equalization of tax assessments among the counties in the state.

Since the split came in the committee Tuesday on the question of a state board of equalizers, Mr. Akin has been using every means in his power to reconcile the conflicting factions, which he fears will endanger the cause of tax reform at this session of the legislature, if it is allowed to break out on the floor of the house.

A more conciliatory spirit was shown at the meeting of the committee yesterday than appeared at Tuesday's meeting, and, if the extremists of both sides can be brought to concede something, there is a strong possibility that the committee may be able to give its united support to a bill.

Chairman Akin has said that it is almost necessary to the success of a tax revision measure this year that it have the united support of the committee behind it. He has himself worked out a plan, embodying the principle of county equalization, on which he hopes the friends of tax revision can get together.

Constitution's Editorial Read.

The chairman of the committee paid a high compliment to The Constitution and the work this paper had done for tax reform. In laying his views before the committee, he read with approval from the editorial of Thursday's paper captioned "A Beginning." He agreed with the editor of The Constitution that a beginning had been made in tax revision with the provision of county boards of equalizers. He also agreed that the committee show--- go a step further and make provision for equalization among the counties.

The chairman's plan provides for a state officer to be known as the state tax equalizer, or tax commissioner, who shall have an office at the capitol, and who shall devote his entire time to the duties of his office. He shall be appointed by the governor and confirmed by the senate.

There shall also be a state board of equalizers to be made up of one representative from each of the congressional or senatorial districts or from each of the congressional districts, as the committee may determine, who shall be a tax officer or a member of one of the county boards of equalizers, and thoroughly familiar with tax values in his section.

It shall be the duty of the state tax equalizer to call the board together when he shall see fit for the purpose of comparing the returns from the different counties and equalizing assessments between them in such manner as will be just and fair to all.

The state tax equalizer and the state board shall not interfere with the assessments of individuals in the counties, but their duties shall be to supervise the tax system of the state as a whole and to bring about equalization of assessments between the counties.

Details to Be Worked Out.

Mr. Akin has not worked out the details of his plan yet, but suggests it as a plan on which all sides can get together, as it has the features of a state board and also the features of the popular representation plan suggested by Dr. Stovall. It also provides a head for the tax system of the state. It is probable that the comptroller general, the state treasurer and the governor, one or all of them, all be made ex-officio members of the state board.

To get the whole thing in working shape a subcommittee was appointed, consisting of Chairman Akin and Representatives Melson, Swift, Garlington, Stovall, Suggs and Lipscomb. The extremists of both factions are represented on this committee as well as conservatives who have occupied a midway ground.

This committee is to meet this morning at 8:30 o'clock and draft amendments to the Sheppard substitute bill, incorporating therein provisions for equalization among counties.

The chairman of the ways and means committee is very much concerned in his effort to get the committee together today. Failure in the get-together movement of the committee fails a strong effort will be made to take the entire matter of tax revision out of the hands of the committee and refer it to a special committee of eleven, according to the resolution introduced in the house Thursday by Representative Swift, of Muscogee, and referred to the committee on rules.

Committee Members Protest.

Some of the members of the committee were very much incensed at the manner in which the Sheppard substitute was rushed through by the majority who were opposed to the creation of a state board Tuesday without even being read to the house.

At the meeting Thursday afternoon Mr. Swift stated that the Sheppard substitute had never been read and there was not a member of the committee who knew its contents, although it had been reported to the house favorably. He says that the committee take more care in future and not pass over any feature of the important question of tax revision without a thorough investigation.

Resolution in Full.

The resolution introduced in the house Thursday morning is as follows:

"Whereas, a reform of Georgia's antiquated, unscientific taxing system, and an equalization and an assessment of property for taxation is the most important question before this session of the legislature, and

"Whereas, action on said taxation question is imperative at this session of the legislature, in order that the financial needs of the state may be supplied, and

"Whereas, both a majority and minority report have been submitted to this house on the various bills with reference to said taxing system, which were referred to the committee on ways and means, and

"Whereas, it is desirable that as far as possible the conflicting views and ideas of various members of the house on the question should be reconciled before the house acts on this all important matter, and

"Whereas, it is reported in the public press that the committee on ways and means has reported to this house with a recommendation that it do pass a measure providing for the equalization and assessment of property for taxation, and in said report it is stated that no member of said committee, save the author of the measure reported, had read or heard read, or knew the contents of the bill reported, and

"Whereas, this report, whether true or false, is calculated to bring this house into ill repute and affects the integrity of the entire house, by giving to the people reports in the impression that this house is about to act hastily and without due consideration on this most serious and important problem, and

"Whereas, this house should see to it that no such impression is allowed to gain credence, therefore be it

COMMITTEE OF ELEVEN.

"Resolved by the house of representatives, That the speaker of the house be, and is hereby authorized and directed to appoint a special committee of eleven from among the members of the house, of which committee the chairman of the committee on appropriations and the chairman of the committee on ways and means shall be ex-officio members and to which committee shall be referred all the bills introduced in this house providing for an equalization of the taxation system of Georgia and for a reform of eGeorgia's antiquated system; and be it further

"Resolved, That said committee appointed as aforesaid, shall confer with the governor of the state, the comptroller general and the treasurer of the state and shall consider all of the bills referred to it providing for an equalization and assessment of property for taxation, and after such consideration and conference as aforesaid, with the officials aforesaid, shall report back to the house on or before July 28, 1913, such bill or bills as in the judgment of the committee is or are designed to best rearrange the present taxing system of the state, to equalize returns and assessments of property for taxation and for other reforms in the taxation system of the state as may be necessary."

Did Not Question Report.

The author of the resolution, when interviewed in regard to it, stated that he did not make any insinuation that the report published in The Constitution was not true. The reason that he introduced the resolution was that he feared that such a report circulated throughout the state would discredit the ways and means committee in the eyes of the people as to make all further efforts on its part in the cause of tax reform of no avail.

The real effect of the publication in The Constitution of the details of Tuesday's meeting seems to have been to put the ways and means committee on its mettle. It is felt that they must now get busy and do something.

The action of the ways and means committee today will definitely decide whether the tax reform bill is to come out of that committee and be presented to the house with a practically united front, or the matter will be referred to a special committee with the house rent and torn by conflicting factions.

Chairman Akin offered a resolution in the house Thursday morning making the tax revision bill a special order for Tuesday, July 21. The resolution was referred to the rules committee, which will probably report on it Friday morning.

ATTORNEYS NEAR CLASH IN CRAWFORD HEARING

Use of the Words "Nefarious Scheme" Riles Rosser — No Change in Criminal Charge.

A personal clash between attorneys in the Crawford litigation was apparently about to break out Thursday when Attorney Luther Z. Rosser, on the stand to testify in regard to a previous settlement of the affair, declared that any further mention of the settlement as a "nefarious scheme to defraud the right heirs of the late Joshua B. Crawford," would be taken as a personal affront.

Auditor James Anderson, who is conducting the hearing, restored order at this juncture and the affair blew over.

Luther Z. Rosser, Colonel P. H. Brewster and J. J. Barge were the attorneys connected with the settlement for the Crawford heirs, or "so-called heirs," as Mrs. Mary Belle Crawford's attorneys name them, and afterward Colonel Reuben R. Arnold declared that the affair was made satisfactory by the statement from Colonel S. S. James that no personal insinuation in regard to the attorneys was meant.

No Change in Criminal Charge.

No change was made during the day in regard to the criminal charge against Mrs. Crawford on the ground that she and Fred Lumb, a New York barber, conspired to poison her aged husband and get his wealth. Colonel James stated that his detectives in New York were as yet unable to find Lumb and that he fully expected the latter to fight requisition should he be located.

"I have, however, a big surprise for Mrs. Crawford and her crowd," he declared, and I intend to show this in short time."

Exactly what he meant by the statement the attorney did not explain, but further charges of a similar nature are expected.

It is expected that Colonel James will close the plaintiff's testimony and introduction of evidence today and the defendant, Mrs. Crawford, will be put upon the stand to make a statement in denial of the charges made in the suit filed to get possession for Charles Z. Crawford and a number of relatives of a larger share of the $250,000 estate of Mr. Crawford who died in 1909, at his residence, 674 Peachtree street.

WORDY WAR OVER, SAYS WOODWARD

In Final Fling at Broyles the Mayor Declares He Is Through With Controversies With City Officials.

The word war raging between Mayor James G. Woodward and Judge Nash R. Broyles, police magistrate, which grew out of the mayor's use of the pardon prerogative, grew tense yesterday, when both sides hurled bitter excoriations at the other.

Mayor Woodward took a final fling at Recorder Broyles in a statement last night.

"I sympathize with Broyles," Mayor Woodward said. "He is in my opinion, a political accident. No one takes him seriously. He is mad with the courts for reversing him, and he is trying to take it all out on me. Really, I am sorry for the fellow."

The mayor announced that he is through with controversies with any city officer. He stated that in the future he will welcome criticism when it is made to him, face to face.

"And when I have anything to say to Judge Broyles I'll tell it to him."

Who Has Each Thinks of Other.

Both Mayor Woodward and Recorder Broyles burned up a choice collection of adjectives in their debates in the newspapers Thursday.

"He's ignorant.

"He knows about as much of law as a hog does of political economy.

"He's a menace to civilization."

Those are some of the harsh things Recorder Broyles said about the mayor.

And—

Mayor Woodward shot these over the plate at the recorder:

"He's a petty czar—a political accident.

"He never was much of a lawyer in his lawyer days, and I don't see any improvement since he has been recorder.

"He's trying to be a little iron king—a Bismarck among the poor creatures at the underworld.

"He's a joke."

Freeman Still in Stockade.

And through it all, Griff Freeman, the third digit, who was the cause of all the rough stuff between the mayor and the recorder, languishes in the stockade. All the chances are that he will remain there. His only chance of freedom lies in his ability to get a bondsman to sign up about $6,500 in bonds.

Mayor Woodward's statement in reply to Recorder Broyles' criticism of his pardoning Freeman brought forth a hot reply Thursday morning from the recorder. In addition to the statements quoted, Recorder Broyles denied the statement of the mayor that he was frequently reversed by the court of appeals. "I have been sustained ten times to every one time I have been reversed," he said.

Mayor Woodward dug up records in the comptroller's office, Thursday, and then made the following statement in contradiction.

"The record of May 23, 1913, shows that the court of appeals reversed, on that day, ten cases which were decided by Judge Broyles. On that same day the court affirmed seven of his decisions. Two of the affirmed cases were against the same man. The fines ranged from $25 to $500. That's some record coming from a judge who accuses me of being ignorant of the law.

Discussion Is Distasteful.

"This entire discussion has been distasteful to me. I am trying to keep down friction in the city administration, but it appears that some people are determined not to let me. Judge Broyles has brought this all on himself, all because of his desire to act the little czar. The mayor's office has been the place for dispensing clemency since Atlanta was Marthasville. The charter gives the executive of the city the right. Recorder Broyles through his littleness, denies that those who come before him must appeal to him for mercy. He has dealt with those poor unfortunates of the underworld so long that he is beginning to imagine himself supreme.

"He resorts to the little method of imposing fines of $49 and sentences of 29 days in order to prevent me interfering. I am satisfied. If he can go to bed with a conscience clear that he is doing justice to those he deals with, I am satisfied.

"In reply to his charge that I am as ignorant of the law as a hog is about political economy, I must plead the right to appeal to a more competent judge. I don't think Judge Broyles is the right one to decide. As to the charge that I am a menace to civilization, I return the insult as gratuitously as it was given. His remarks about my lack of knowledge may or may not be timely, as I never heard of Broyles being much of a lawyer in his lawyer days, and I don't think he has improved any.

"From the bottom of my heart I am sorry for him. If it is possible for him to get a little free advertising by roasting me and exploiting his own ability as a fly trainer, I have no kick to offer.

"However, I do think Judge Broyles should practice what he preaches. I understand he plays golf on Sunday and on Monday will fine a youngster who is picked up on the street for playing baseball. Verily, he deserves the sympathy of the people."

Recorder Broyles charges the mayor with having pardoned Freeman after making a promise that he would not interfere. Mayor Woodward, in reply, said that he did not know that Freeman was sick and could not work. He asserts that he issued the pardon only upon representations made to him by Drs. Batty and Hall that Freeman was seriously ill.

STARNES TO PLAY GREAT SYMPHONY AT FINAL CONCERT

Dr. Percy J. Starnes, city organist, gave next to his final organ recital at the Auditorium-Armory last night before an audience that was rather small, considering the crowds which have taken advantage of the opportunity to listen to his rendition of the world's masterpieces of music on the wonderful organ.

The recital was made up entirely of classical music and contained four selections which Dr. Starnes played with not more than a minute's rest between each selection.

The announcement was made on the program that at a date to be announced next week Dr. Starnes would give in his final recital the great "Symphonie Pathetique" of Tschaikowsky in its entirety.

dale pointed out various sites which could be used in case the fort should be enlarged.

There was little formality in the visit. No review of the troops was made. Except for the booming of a salute of 17 guns, it looked as though a party of friends were going over the grounds in autos.

When asked as to the reduction of the army posts, Secretary Garrison said: "I cannot say as to the number which will finally remain. It is certain though that there will be a reduction. I shall visit practically all of the forty-nine posts. It will take fully six weeks to accomplish this task. Major Generals Wood and Aleshire will be of great value to me on this tour and it will not be until our final report is made that any definite answer can be determined upon."

Major General Wood seemed very much impressed with the post.

"It is in most excellent shape," he said. "Its strategic position here is most valuable. As you know, last year I recommended that it be made a brigade post. As to whether this will finally be accomplished I cannot say, in fact, nothing definite can be given out until Secretary Garrison completes his tour. However, I have always regarded the Atlanta and Chattanooga territory as very important because of their strategic positions."

Silent on Mexican Situation.

Neither Secretary Garrison nor General Wood would commit themselves on the Mexican situation. Speaking to a Constitution reporter the secretary said: "President Wilson sent for the Mexican ambassador in order that he might ascertain the true situation in Mexico. As you know, there have been many rumors current within the past few months. As to what action he shall take I cannot say. That is for him to decide."

Owing to the briefness of their visit, the party asked that no formal entertainment be given. After leaving the post, a luncheon was served at General vans' residence on Peachtree. Those present were: Secretary of War Garrison, Major General Leonard Wood, Captain Schindel of the general staff, Mr. Pedigo, Secretary Garrison's secretary; Major General Aleshire; Hon. Clark Howell, Colonel Robt. L. Lowry, Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce, Colonel Van Orsdale, General Evans; his adjutant, Colonel Barth, and his aide, Lieutenant Tucker.

After leaving General Evans' residence, the party proceeded in autos to the scene of the battle of Peachtree creek, and thence to Pine Hill, the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Howell. From there they drove to the Piedmont Driving club, where they were informally entertained by Wilmer L. Moore, president of the chamber of commerce. From the Piedmont Driving club they made a tour of inspection of Atlanta in company with Mr. Howell, Mr. Moore and Colonel Lowry.

The party left on their private car at 5:10 o'clock in the afternoon, going direct to Chattanooga, where they will inspect Fort Chickamauga today. From there they go direct to Memphis, and will then continue the tour toward the southwest. Several of the Mexican border posts will be visited in all probability.

Steamers Collide in Fog.

Chicago, July 17.—The steamers Sheboygan and Iowa, of the Goodrich line of lake steamers, collided in a fog at the entrance of the harbor here today. The Sheboygan was but little damaged, but the Iowa, with a hole 25 feet in diameter in her bow, after being assisted by tugs to a wharf in the river, sank. The financial loss on the Iowa and her cargo was heavy.

HOT FIRE DRIVES MELLEN TO LEAVE

now at work on the company's books

Mr. Mellen is under federal indictment for alleged violation of the anti-trust laws and an indictment for manslaughter, resulting from the Westport, Conn., wreck also is hanging over him.

It is known that an influential factor in the board favors the sale of the company's water lines and many, it is not all, of its railroads. It is believed the New Haven also will relinquish control of the Boston and Maine road.

Financial Condition of Road.

According to an exhaustive examination made by the New Haven system its assets are estimated at close to $500,000,000 against liabilities of $394,000,000.

Mr. Mellen's retirement will open the way to much conjecture regarding his successor. The name most frequently mentioned in this connection is that of Howard Elliott, head of the Northern Pacific road, from which Mr. Mellen resigned to accept the management of the New Haven.

The text of the formal statement announcing Mr. Mellen's resignation is as follows:

"Mr. Mellen, at a meeting of his board of directors today, tendered his resignation as the president of the New Haven road and all its subsidiary companies, to take effect at the pleasure of the board, but in any event not later than October 1, 1913."

Why Mellen Resigned.

Boston, July 17.—According to interests close to President Mellen, one reason he has given for resigning was the apparent disposition to hold him, as president of the road, responsible for acts which might be committed by an engineer or other employees of the company and of which the president might be without knowledge. It is said, he felt that having a wife and children he would not face the personal responsibility which his position imposed upon him under these circumstances.

OPEN TRUCKLING TO THE COMBINES LAID TO ROOSEVELT

Lobby Probers Told That the Colonel Tried to Please the "Interests" to Get Support for Taft.

DIRTY DEAL CHARGED AGAINST "UNCLE JOE"

Late Vice President Sherman Is Quoted as Denouncing Roosevelt for the Fight Made on Cannon.

Washington, July 17.—Martin M. Mulhall, late "lobbyist" for the National Association of Manufacturers, was put on cross-examination today about the truth of his own correspondence for the first time since nearly a week ago, when he began to tell the senate investigating committee of his doings.

Senator Reed questioned Mulhall about his alleged relations with S. W. McClave in 1908, when McClave was a candidate for congress in the sixth New Jersey district against William Hughes, now junior senator from that state. McClave is the republican candidate in the new sixth district, where a special election will be held next Tuesday. C. Hart, the democratic candidate in this district, today was indorsed by President Wilson.

Senator Reed announced that McClave had denied acquaintance with Mulhall, and jumped the witness from "exhibits" in his case around the 1,800 mark to those close to 4,000. The senator said he wanted to prove who was telling the truth, Mulhall or McClave.

Many Letters From McClave.

Mulhall identified many letters from McClave to himself, written in 1908, said he went to the sixth district to help McClave fight Hughes, and gave details of his work there. He said the National Association of Manufacturers furnished him with $3,000 for this fight and that a man named "Barber" put up $2,000. He told about taking McClave to lunch and dinner, about riding with him around in cabs on political tours and in other ways helping out in the fight. One item in an expense account Senator Reed put in the record spoke of "dinner for two" and the witness was asked who was the other person.

"I think it was McClave; he was always on hand," said the witness.

Mulhall swore he took McClave around to shops in the district. He said they went to one shop and the superintendent said he would rather give $500 than let them in. "McClave growled all the way home because we didn't take them on and try to get the help afterwards," he added.

Such a Tight-Fisted Wad.

"The last three days of the campaign he and I slept together," said the witness once, illustrating how close he was to McClave.

Mulhall said McClave was in the lumber business, and members of the committee wanted to know if he didn't have money. Mulhall said he heard so. "But," he added, "I have been campaigning for thirty years among all sorts of men and I never saw such a tight-fisted wad in my life."

Mulhall said he furnished headquarters and paid for McClave's meals three times a day.

"Why did you want to elect such a man for?" he was asked.

"He was a 'con' man; that's the only way I can explain it," said the witness.

Mulhall said a man named "Burke," collector of internal revenue at Paterson, had been paid by him $40 a week "regularly" for services in this campaign.

The testimony about McClave was a climax to a rather sensational day, even for the committee that has waded through almost daily sessions for nearly two months. In five hours Mulhall identified hundreds of letters, bringing in the names of dozens of the most prominent men in the republican party in 1908, and speaking familiarly of making platforms, throwing influence to men for nominations to all sorts of offices and of working to elect or defeat others for congress.

Trust-Trucking Laid to Roosevelt.

Some of the letters introduced dealt with former President Roosevelt's indorsement of the candidacy of Mr. Taft, then secretary of war.

In a letter to Schwedtman, secretary of the manufacturers, in April, 1908, Mulhall quoted the late Vice President Sherman as saying that the fight then raging on Speaker Cannon was a "dirty deal by the white house against the speaker."

"Watson states," wrote Mulhall, "that the president (Roosevelt) is moving heaven and earth to nominate Taft, and that he is willing to sacrifice the Sherman law and every law to please the trusts and please Wall street, so that he can get their support for his candidacy."

One of Mulhall's letters detailed a conversation with Senator Beveridge, in which the Indiana senator declared himself for an injunction bill, amendment of the Sherman law and a child labor bill. Mulhall wrote that he reported Beveridge's sentiments to Hemenway.

"Beveridge Talking Through Hat."

"Hemenway told me to tell Beveridge he was talking through his hat, and that his hat was a damn poor one. He added that Beveridge was 'bluffing,'" said the letter, "and assured me that no such legislation could pass the senate. Watson later told Mr. Emery and I that Beveridge was simply crazy. Watson stated that he was in full charge of affairs in the house during the illness of the speaker."

Schwedtman wrote Mulhall on May 8 about Beveridge's attitude.

"Beveridge is not very big now, but will grow smaller right along if he keeps up that kind of talk. He need not try to bluff us. We have been in the game too long."

Lobbyists Close to G. O. P. Leaders.

As the year progressed the interest of Mulhall in the national campaign began to show plainly. His letters to secretary Schwedtman of the National Association of Manufacturers, to James W. Van Cleave, its president, and to men in congress showed activity preceding and during the republican convention held in Chicago that year. Arthur I. Vorys, one of the Taft managers; Wade D. Ellis, the man then credited with writing the platform and afterwards the chief "trust buster of the department of justice; Frank Hitchcock, former Speaker Cannon, Representative McKinley, of Illinois, as well as many others of prominence were mentioned, and Mulhall boasted in his letters of his acquaintance with most of them.

Toward the close of the session Senator Reed put in a letter Mulhall swore he wrote to former Congressman Ralph D. Cole, of the eighth Ohio district, in which he said:

"We suppose you are aware of the miserable treatment we received from Attorney General Ellis, A. I. Vorys and other Taft managers, and although there are several officers of our organization who are friends of Mr. Taft, still there are over 40,000 manufacturers in this country today well organized who are very sore on account of the work done by Ellis, Hitchcock, Vorys and others at Chicago."

Cause of the Soreness.

The committee wanted Mulhall to explain what caused the soreness. "They were having a conference in Ellis' room in Chicago," he said. "We went up and knocked on the door and for quite a time there was no answer. Then Taft's brother came to the door and said they would see us in a few minutes. While we were there Gompers walked out. They tried to deny that they had given a hearing to Gompers, but Emery and the others were pretty sore about it."

The witness identified a pamphlet issued in the fall of 1908, in which President Van Cleave, of the National Association of Manufacturers, announced "we saw that we would fall in Denver if we went there, and so we kept out."

The pamphlet contained an attack on William J. Bryan, then the democratic presidential candidate, but stated that Van Cleave was "not taking party politics," but was talking as a business man to other business men on a subject of vital concern to all.

A Remarkable Letter.

One of the remarkable letters of the day was identified by Mulhall as his letter of introduction and his credentials. It read:

"National Association of Manufacturers, St. Louis, July 6, 1908—To whom it may concern: This letter will introduce Colonel M. M. Mulhall, for whom I bespeak the greatest possible consideration from every member of the National Association of Manufacturers.

"It is thoroughly clear to you that in order to have any standing with the elected and appointed officials of our country, whether federal or state, we must be able to show them that the business men and the manufacturers of our county are a factor to be reckoned with in politics. We must be able to prove to the man who is blacklisted by the labor unions because he refused to legislate special privileges to labor organizations and the demagogues that he will not suffer at the polls on account of his patriotism and his devotion to duty.

"This makes necessary a great deal of field work, and Colonel Mulhall is in charge of this most important branch of our activity. His record is enviable, and his fidelity, integrity and honesty beyond question. You can speak with him in strict confidence, and you can rest assured that when he calls upon you it will be on a subject most important to you and to all of us. Very truly yours,

"J. W. VAN CLEAVE,
"President."

Reference to Emery.

There were many references during the day to James A. Emery, who Mulhall said is the Washington representative of the National Association of Manufacturers, but who, J. P. Bird, the general manager of that organization, swore the other day is connected with the National Council for Industrial Defense and not with the association. Senator Reed laid particular emphasis on passages in letters telling of Mulhall's talks with Emery. Just at the close of the session he made a final reference to Emery.

He didn't do much active work, did he?" asked the senator.

"No, he does a lot of promising," said Mulhall.

$10,000 ASKED FOR GEORGIA STATE FAIR

President of State Agricultural Society Says This Much Is Needed for Prizes.

In an argument before the appropriations committee of the house of representatives yesterday in behalf of an appropriation of $10,000 to the State Agricultural Society for prizes in connection with the Georgia state fair, Hon. John T. Williams, president of the society, said:

"The small appropriation asked for is only an absolute necessity because the State Fair cannot be made a success without the appropriation.

"One failure of the Georgia State Fair would injure the state of Georgia more than one hundred times as much as the appropriation asked for, and would stop the wheels of progress for years to come.

"Georgia has made generous appropriations for the purpose of making exhibits at St. Louis, at Chicago, and at Jamestown, and the appropriation now asked for, for an exhibit within the state, is only one-third of the amount appropriated for Jamestown, St. Louis and Chicago.

"It is recognized that the state has not at the present times an overflowing treasury, and it is recognized further that the general assembly must act with caution in making appropriations, but it is suggested with great respect that while these favoring this appropriation should not oppose any other appropriation, they insist that if the best interests of the state are to be considered, the appropriation asked for the State Fair will do more good to more people than any appropriation asked for at the hands of this legislature.

"The agriculturist is the foundation of the state's welfare. Whatever stimulates him and encourages him, benefits every interest in the state. Another thing, the appropriations for foreign exhibits have been appropriations that were all spent outside of the state. Every dollar of this appropriation will be spent within the state, and will repay the state ten fold, a hundred fold, yea a thousand fold.

"Agriculture is our vital and pivotal industry. On it everything else rests, and in the name of the general spirit of the agricultural interests of the state of Georgia, this small appropriation of $10,000 is most urgently asked for at your hands."

INDICTMENTS FOUND AGAINST STATE OFFICERS

Jackson, Miss., July 17.—The Hinds county grand jury's work of clearing up serious charges against Mississippi's prison officials moved rapidly today when indictments were returned against C. C. Smith, W. A. Montgomery and Leroy Taylor, members of the prison board of trustees. Each is charged in two indictments of misfeasance in office. Smith yesterday was sentenced to five years' imprisonment after conviction on a charge of defrauding the state through sale of products of the state prison farms.

The indictments today charge that the officers neglected their duty in allowing Lawrence Yerger, confessed defaulting former secretary of the board, to sell cotton seed and for failing to ask for competitive bids for purchases of prison supplies.

LEE FINALLY DIES OF SUICIDAL BULLET; NEVER EXPLAINED

Brunswick, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) W. R. Lee, treasurer of the Mutual Light and Water company, who on last Friday put a bullet through his head with suicidal intend and who has since been lingering between life and death, passed away at his home this morning.

No hope has ever been entertained for his recovery by the attending physicians, his death always having been considered a question of time. Never since he sent the bullet crashing through his brain has he regained full consciousness.

On one or two occasions Mr. Lee revived sufficiently to recognize his wife and other members of the family and has uttered one or two sentences, but never has he referred to the shooting. Why he ended his life is a mystery which will probably never be solved. The deceased will be buried tomorrow by the local lodge of Elks, of which he was long a member, having served for several years as secretary.

MISS THURMOND READS OWN OBITUARY NOTICE

Washington, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Miss Nettie Louise Thurmond, a popular young woman of Wilkes county, has just experienced a thrill which comes to few people in this life—the pleasure of reading her own obituary notice. The last issue of The Washington Reporter contained a column article written by an Athens, Ga., lady in which the death of Miss Thurmond was announced and the many virtues of the "deceased" were lengthily extolled by one who had been her former school teacher.

After the papers were off the press and circulated to the subscribers the error was detected. In some unaccountable way the Athens lady got her wires crossed and she discovered her mistake too late to have it corrected. Miss Thurmond, in the meantime, has been kept quite busy telling her friends "how it feels" to read one's own obituary.

RARE TREAT IN STORE FOR THE LEGISLATORS

When the members of the Georgia legislature go to Augusta on Saturday to be entertained by the city council and to look into the question of appropriating a sum for the hospital there, they will be entertained as only millionaires and such men as the president of the United States and a few others have been.

This is the information that comes from Augusta folk who tell of a dinner planned for the solons at 'Carmichael's," a place famous for barbecued chicken and toothsome specialties in mushrooms. Barbecued beef and pig the legislators have often feasted upon, but according to Augustans there are very few who know the delights of a barbecued chicken, garnished with mushrooms, and the Georgia solons who make the trip will have an opportunity to gratify the most Epicurean taste.

MRS. FLANDERS' CASE FINALLY DISPOSED OF

Swainsboro, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) The case against Mrs. Mattie Flanders, jointly indicted with Dr. W. J. McNaughton for the murder of her husband, Fred Flanders, by poisoning, more than three years ago, was finally disposed of Wednesday afternoon by being nol prossed by the state for want of sufficient evidence to convict.

This disposition of her case is expected here to turn public sentiment to Dr. McNaughton, and it is believed that a majority of the people in Emanuel county would sign a petition for his full pardon.

FIRE AGAIN DESTROYS MOULTRIE WAREHOUSE

Moultrie, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Fire broke out at an early hour this morning in the freight warehouse of the Georgia Northern railway and completely destroyed that building, together with the contents. Two box cars were also burned. The building was a brick structure, and completed only a few months ago to replace the depot and office building of the company which was destroyed by fire last September. Building and contents are valued at $15,000, fully covered by insurance. The building will be replaced as quickly as possible.

MOTHER FOLLOWS HER SON TO THE GRAVE

Athens, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Mrs. S. B. Wingfield, Sr., mother of Archibald Wingfield, whose death occurred last night, died this evening and a double funeral will be held from the Baptist Tabernacle Friday morning.

Mrs. Wingfield was 74 years old. She was a Miss Callaway, of Wilkes, before her marriage. She had thirteen children, rearing eleven of them, and many grandchildren and several great-grandchildren.

AMERICUS POSTOFFICE IS UNDERGOING PROBE

Americus, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Two inspectors of the postoffice department are making an inspection of the Americus postoffice. Interest attaches to this fact, in view of the possibility of a change in the postmastership, although the appointment of Postmaster Mitchell, republican, does not expire for two years. There are several democratic applicants for the office, which Postmaster Mitchell has held many years.

HERALDS OF LIBERTY OFFICIALS IN ATLANTA

The supreme officers of the Fraternal Order of Heralds of Liberty arrived in Atlanta yesterday on their way to Huntsville, Ala., for the annual convention of the organization at the place where the first lodge was instituted in February, 1901.

In Atlanta the party was joined by W. M. Robinson, representative for Georgia. They expect to reach the convention city tomorrow. Many ladies are in the party, as a number of the officers have brought their wives and daughters with them.

Sword-Swallower Dead.

Bismark, N. D., July 17.—Allen J. Price, 46 years old, sword swallower and snake charmer, died here yesterday from drug poisoning. It was learned some time ago he sold his body to be delivered after death to a university at Baltimore. His widow lives in New York city.

DARING BIRDMAN FLIES AT THE ISLE OF PALMS

William Luckey Voyages From the Isle to Charleston and Returns.

Isle of Palms, S. C., July 17.—(Special.)—William S. Luckey, of New York city, a Curtis aviator of wide reputation for skill and daring, will make exhibition flights from here to Charleston and return and also at the beach on Friday, Saturday and Sunday, reserving his best stunts for the crowds that throng to the beach from all parts of South Carolina, North Carolina and Georgia on Sunday.

Mr. Luckey has brought a hydro-aeroplane with him, in order to demonstrate what the latest idea in flying machines can accomplish on water as well as on land, and his machine is capable of developing a speed of 125 miles an hour, with the wind. This is the first time that the hydro-aeroplane has been seen in this part of the country, and in the south, with the exception of Florida. Visitors are expected to visit the Isle of Palms this week from far and near to witness the daring flying feats that Mr. Luckey purposes to accomplish, if a fatal accident does not interrupt his plans.

The New York aviator is a man of thirty-eight years, who, in 1911, decided to divide his time between the business of leather manufacturing and aviation, quite a contrast of occupations. He has flown in Canada, New York, and in many other States, making 400 flights since he entered the aviation field, and escaping narrowly many serious accidents by his steady nerve and mastery of his machine.

On Sunday he will give the visitors to the Isle of Palms a novel demonstration of the possibilities of the hydro-aeroplane in life-saving work. He will show how a drowning person can be rescued from an aeroplane. He is under contract to deliver the mail daily from the Isle of Palms to the Charleston postoffice, making the trip of eight or ten miles over ocean and harbor to the city ferry wharf of the Charleston-Isle of Palms Traction company. His machine has both water and land gears. It is of the same model as is used by the United States and foreign nations in naval exercises.

STATUE OF COL. SANDERS NOW IN GAINESVILLE

Gainesville, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) The statue of Colonel C. C. Sanders, which was executed in Italy by a commission given by the McNeil Marble company, has been placed upon its base on the north corner of the postoffice grounds.

The statue is a life-size likeness of Colonel Sanders in a sitting posture, and is upon a base of white Georgia marble. The base serves not only as a resting place for the statue, but also as a drinking fountain. The time for the unveiling has not yet been set, but it will be in the very near future.

ATLANTA NEW YORK PARIS

Now for the Once-In-A-Year Event

The Half-Price Sale

Of Our Finest Embroideries

Flouncings, Bands and Points of Rare Beauty

The Selling Starts at 9 O'Clock

Today is the once-in-a-year day for buying embroideries—the day of the Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co.'s disposal of their choicest imported embroideries.

The ranking embroidery event that Atlanta knows!

It is not surprising that we should hold such a sale. A clearaway at this season. It is quite logical that we should dispose of all these embroideies while they are still fresh, that when the next season starts, we shall start with entirely new stocks. You expect that of us. But it is surprising and out of the ordinary that we should have the temerity to go at the disposal in such a determined fashion—by halving prices.

Therein lies one difference between this and many embroidery sales; another is the embroideries themselves. They are those exquisite affairs that the women of Atlanta naturally turn to Chamberlin-Johnson-DuBose Co. for at regular prices, ranking among the most beautiful that come from Switzerland.

Fabrics as soft and sheer as looms can spin them, embroidered in amazing patterns at one time as lacy as gossamer, again heavy, rich, gorgeous.

Some of them are even hand embroidered.

There are flouncings, 45 inches wide that were $3.50 to $17.50 a yard.

There are bands 4 to 10 inches wide that were $3.50 to $12 a yard.

There are embroidery points—to match the flouncings and the bands—that were $3.50 to $12 a yard.

Mulls, Crepes, Voiles, Batistes mostly—and you will get a new idea of how sheer a fabric can be woven once you see these—and linens.

A few tans and blues, mostly white.

Half-price.

Why, it will pay women to buy for next spring!

And doubtless many will, once they see the rare beauty of the embroideries.

THE COUNTRY TEACHERS.

The rich state of Georgia would have no cause of complaint if the thousands of its country school teachers raised behind it the pursuit-cry of—

"STOP, THIEF!"

For in effect Georgia has been pilfering from its country school teachers since the establishment of the public school system forty-four years ago. The common sense definition of thievery is the unlawful retention of money or property. Georgia is guilty on two counts. In the first place, she makes her country school teachers wait for ten to twelve months for their meager pay, and where they get it in advance it is at a discount of from 8 to 25 per cent. In the second place, SO STRAIGHTENED ARE GEORGIA'S FINANCES BY HER BEGGARLY TAX SYSTEM THAT STATE OFFICIALS ARE FORCED EACH YEAR TO VIOLATE THE CONSTITUTION BY DIVERTING FUNDS MEANT FOR THE TEACHERS TO NAKED PURPOSES OF UPKEEP. So that our state officials are by exigency forced into the role of LAW-BREAKERS.

This condition is bringing Georgia into disrepute before the entire civilized world. The state is being mocked by her neighbors. Describing the lesser shame of other states, The Birmingham (Ala.) News shows that Georgia reaches the pinnacle of reproach. "IT IS ONLY IN GEORGIA, IN SOME RESPECTS THE RICHEST OF THE COTTON STATES, THAT THE COUNTRY TEACHERS ARE TREATED WITH CONTEMPT."

That is a blistering indictment, and it is wholly undeniable. What teachers are being treated with contempt? The city school teachers? No. The city counties have their own system. The city teachers are paid—and they are paid on the dot. It is THE RURAL SCHOOL TEACHER, the teacher that is educating the child of the farmer, that is molding the minds of the backbone of the state's population, that is treated with contempt, penalized, thrust aside, made to shylock her pitiful pay.

Another remarkable feature of the situation is the attitude of those counties with their own systems and, therefore, practically independent of the belated state funds. Those counties do not suffer when the state shamelessly repudiates or postpones its obligations. They would not benefit substantially by the abolition of the old system of chronic arrearage, for their teachers are promptly paid. Yet so strong is their spirit of state pride, so keen their resentment of having Georgia placarded before the nation, so strong their resentment of the injustice to the state's employees that they have not entered one word of protest against the temporary additional tax levies of one mill one year and half a mill the next needed to put the state even with the country teachers.

If there really were two sides to the issue, which there is not, it would be logical to expect the city counties that take care of their own teachers, to raise a protest against the extra levy, which will benefit them only indirectly. Yet we hear no protest from them. Their attitude speaks in their legislative and senatorial representatives.

As a matter of cold fact, no county would be perceptibly penalized by these extra levies. The effect will be virtually infinitesimal. But its result would be to wipe out the dishonor of more than four decades. The legislature does not settle whether the tax shall or shall not be levied. It does not assume that responsibility. All it is asked to do is to let the people settle the question at the polls. We do not see how any legislator who has due respect for the innate honesty of his constituency can blink the issue. We do not see how any legislator can with a clear conscience deny to the people of Georgia the right to lift a stigma that brands the whole state.

THE SPY RECALLED.

The department of justice has recalled the "investigator" that has been trailing Judge Emory Speer. Two unofficial interpretations of the action are offered. One is that the department is in haste to make its report. The other is that indignant sentiment throughout the country has caused it to recede from its act of espionage. We hope the latter construction is the correct one.

It is to be doubted if the layman knows the true menace in the situation. It is not simply the federal judiciary that is involved, and it is not simply Judge Speer with whose fate we are concerned. But we do confess to alarm when the government assumes such inquisitorial rights as may at any time lay open to attack and destruction the character of any private individual without at least giving him the chance for a hearing.

If with no open scandal or known derelictions reliably lodged against an official occupying the high office of judge, he can be pilloried by a criminal investigation—what about the citizen in civilian life? Is there any guarantee that the forces that thrust suspicion upon a judge will not also thrust suspicion upon a business man, a banker, or a professional man?

Organized espionage helped to crush the last administration. A democratic administration cannot afford to nurse such a menace.

IN JUSTICE TO PENSACOLA.

The people of Pensacola, Fla., are really performing a patriotic servibe in repelling the attacks made upon the fitness of that city as a naval base. Elsewhere we reproduce a letter sent by S. E. Dobson, president of the Pensacola Commercial association, to a Philadelphia paper. It seems that for the past few months three or four of the eastern cities maintaining navy yards have centered their fire on Pensacola. The incident grows out of the plans of the navy department for a reorganization of navy yards and the elimination of a few with the idea of more effective centralization. It is becoming apparent that in the process one or two of the eastern establishments may have to go, while Pensacola stands a good chance to be retained and enlarged. This danger has roused a corporal's guard of eastern newspapers to action, and they have been unfairly misrepresenting the facilities of the Florida city. When they are asked to make correction they manifest reluctance to do so.

President Dobson's arguments regarding Pensacola are correct. Its location is ideal, especially with reference to the Panama canal. Its port facilities are splendid. It is less than 300 miles from Birmingham, where there is an inexhaustible supply of steam coal. The climate of the vicinity compares favorably, the year round, with that of any of the sections already boasting navy yards.

The Constitution regrets to see the issue of sectionalism raised in this manner. We fear our eastern contemporaries have been just a trifle culpable on that count. If ever the navy is to be 100 per cent efficient and pork barrel methods are to be discarded a beginning must be made and some sections will be penalized. Pensacola is not to blame if it offers to the nation a site proof against legitimate criticism. And those who seek to disparage the cause of the Florida city must realize the weakness of their propaganda, since they must resort to misrepresentations, such as seems to have been the case in the instance under discussion.

Secretary Daniels may be depended upon to do the fair thing in the premises. He has visited Pensacola recently and exhaustively investigated conditions there. While he has not committed himself, there is little doubt that his mind is made up concerning Pensacola's fitness.

FELONY VS. MURDER.

The general judiciary committee of the house is reported reluctant to approve a bill making felony of pistol-toting. There are some mighty good lawyers and mighty good citizens on this committee, and they are probably acting with due and conscientious deliberation.

But, surely, something must be done to stop this deadly and jungle practice in Georgia. Ordinary means have failed. We have depended on them, and pistol-toting steadily increases.

We do not know if pistol-toting should be made a felony. But we respectfully suggest to the committee the pistol-toter is invariably a potential murderer.

By a possible prosecution for felony, which may stop pistol-toting; or by a sure prosecution for murder, which cannot possibly resurrect the dead man or provide for his widow and orphans?

How is society and the state best served?

Song of the Impatient.

I.

I'll leave the dim valley and climb the high hill
As soon as they settle the tariff;
I'll plank down the dollars and settle that bill
As soon as they settle the tariff.
My great, great grandchildren will loll 'round my chair
And stroke the last strands of my snowy-white hair
And wonder how came the Methuselah there,
As soon as they settle the tariff.

II.

The moon'll be blind and the sun'll be cold
The earth will go tottering—stupidly old,
As soon as they settle the tariff.
The sky will be painted with ominous red;
The last word of all to the world will be said,
While the trumpet of Gabriel rouses the dead,
The day that they settle the tariff!

"This book belongs to St. Mary of Roberts Bridge; whosoever shall steal it, or sell it, or in any way alienate it from this house, let him be anathemamaranatha. Amen." Underneath this a later owner has written: "I, John, Bishop of Exeter, know not where the aforesaid house is, nor did I steal this book, but acquired it in a lawful way."

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON.
The Peoria Star.

MASCULINE BEAUTY.

"Well, I for one am glad that Skimpington has quit patronising this boarding house," remarked the melancholy boarder. "I couldn't eat my vittles with any comfort while that man was at the groaning board.

"I can't understand why you all seemed to have such a prejudice against Mr. Skimpington," said the landlady. "I thought him a perfect gentleman."

"Of course you did, my dear Mrs. Jiggers," observed the star boarder. "This Skimpington person always paid his board in advance, and that fact, in the eyes of an elderly landlady, covers a multitude of sins. If we happened to have a boarder who smelled strongly of sulphur and who had some trouble concealing his horns and cloven feet, he would be considered a perfect gentleman if he paid his board in advance.

"The departed Skimpington was too beautiful, Mrs. Jiggers. He always was so glossy and immaculate that when he took his place at the table the rest of us became painfully conscious that our whiskers were leaking, and that our necktles were far from being best sellers. If a man is naturally beautiful, he can't help it, and the best a thing that he can't help, and he deserves some sympathy. Beautiful men never are popular with their own sex, Mrs. Jiggers, for it's hard to look at a handsome and well-dressed at the same time, and the man who lacks modesty can't hope to enjoy the friendship of other men than life insurance agents and distributors of sewing machines.

"As I remarked, the man who is born beautiful may be tolerated to some extent, but though he can't help it a man like Skimpington who is determined to be radiant, regardless of expense. He never had a thought for anything but his looks; he never read anything but works of Lillian Russell; he couldn't converse about anything but the broken hearts of ladies of high rank who yearned to be his brides, and yearned in vain. Shall the fact that he paid his board in advance reconcile us to a creature of that character? Perish the thought, Mrs. Jiggers.

"He spent most of his time before his mirror, and he had more little boxes and bottles and tubes than a successful variety actress, and he was always doing something for his complexion; and our greatest thinkers and writers, including Darwin and Huxley, agree that the works of Lillian Russell on his complexion is a cheap skate. That sort of thing properly belongs to a woman's sphere; we expect our women to kalsomine themselves and train cunning little curls to grow down on their blessed foreheads, and much of the feeling against the suffragists is due to the fact that they are neglecting their duties along this line. No sooner does a woman convince herself that the cause is the only thing that matters, than she quits shaving and combining her nose and combing her hair. As a consequence the suffrage women all seem to belong to the mud fence family, and if we want our clocks to keep time we mustn't let those females look at them.

"The man who considers the toilet the most important of human affairs is quite as disagreeable as the woman who doesn't. When our friend Skimpington combed his hair he had the works of Euclid and other mathematical treties at hand for consultation. When he made the parting down the middle I feel quite sure that the hairs on either side were carried squad to number. I never saw that parting, Mrs. Jiggers, without wishing we had an expert accountant here to ratify my theory. I have no doubt that Skimpington went to sleep with his whiskers in curl papers, for no human whiskers ever waved and crinkled naturally like his. And he had his vest pocket full of little boxes containing beef, iron and wine, using them on those whiskers. And his teeth were entirely too pearly. The man who wishes to enjoy the confidence of his fellow boarders should not display his teeth. And his neckties always sat just right, which is an offense in itself. I have no doubt that he used a theodolite when he adjusted his neckties.

"And yet, Mrs. Jiggers, you speak of such a man as being a perfect gentleman merely because he paid in advance. Your mercenary spirit causes me frequent astonishment and grief."

Opposes Medical Bill.

Editor Constitution: I would like to ask the allopaths why this attempt to make the "medical practice bill" a law.

A science (so-called) that cannot stand on its own merits and has to dodge behind the law to help it, certainly needs "higher education," if they contemplate staying in the same old rut where they have been for the last 1,000 years.

There is not a doctor in the state who has the faintest conception of the bonehead, the therapeutic, the physiological or the toxiological action of the drugs he seeks the license to employ.

A Matter of Regret.

(From The New York World.)

It is with the most profound regret that we have to note the position into which the secretary of state has drawn himself and the explanation now given, which only makes it worse.

Whether Mr. Bryan can afford to take a prolonged vacation at just this critical time for the administration and his party in office may be a question, but a minor one. Whether, under the frankly admitted circumstances of his family life, he can afford a money-making vacation, must be something less than a question with the great masses of the people whose life he has lived in sympathy.

The real question is whether the government for such a position as his may not justly claim an undivided service, and whether any other view is not a blow with a worthy ambition. We have had men in high office who have sacrificed personal fortune to render such undivided service and could afford it. We have had many more men there who have done this and could not afford it.

We cannot think of the president of the United States doing otherwise. We should not be able to think of any of his cabinet doing otherwise.

Why He Worries.

(From The Monroe Advertiser.)

We hardly know which is the greater pest the new county agitation or the boll weevil.

The World's Mysteries

DID MARSHAL NEY DIE IN AMERICA?

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Every reader is familiar with the greater part of the life of Marshal Ney, whom Napoleon himself nicknamed "The Bravest of the Brave." He was in every respect the most brilliant of the coterie of Marshals which the great French general had gathered around him. His bravery was especially signal in the terrible retreat of the French army from Moscow.

When Napoleon was overpowered and sent to exile on the Island of Elbe in 1814, Ney promised to support the Bourbon King Louis XVIII. At the return of Napoleon from Elba the command of the royalist army was confided to him, but when Napoleon summoned him to his standard as the bravest of the brave, he could not resist and went over to the emperor.

Ney was second in command at the battle of Waterloo, where he fought with desperate tenacity till night and defeat came, and he was compelled to flee. Five horses were shot under him and his clothes were torn with bullets. Contrary to the general amnesty that was decreed, the Bourbons ordered his arrest, he was condemned to die and on December 7, 1815, the sentence was carried out by a squad of soldiers in the Luxembourg Gardens.

This is the official story regarding the end of Marshal Ney. It would appear in all respects to be true, and very strange is a contradictory story which has been widely circulated, to the effect that the soldiers who fired at Ney used blank cartridges, that he fell, pretending to be mortally wounded, was carried away to a cell, from which he escaped the same night, rode to Bordeaux and there took ship for South Caroline. He was saved, the story says, through the influence of the Duke of Wellington.

The American end of this plot in the Ney drama, begins in 1818, when a stranger appeared in Brownsville, S. C., who gave his name as Peter Stuart Ney. He was a man of fine and soldierly appearance, and spoke with a distinct foreign accent. His face and body were scarred deeply with wounds. The similarity of name and the French accent brought out queries which he evaded, further than to confess that he once fought under Napoleon.

For a number of years he taught school in North and South Carolina and in Virginia. Once a French soldier traveling in the south caught sight of him and cried: "Mon Dieu. C'est le Marechal Ney!"

Among his pupils was Rev. J. L. Gay, who later rose high in the Episcopal church and was a man of irreproachable veracity. Here is the mysterious man's story as told by Mr. Gay: "When I was a boy, with schoolboy audacity, I asked the teacher, 'Are you kin to Marshal Ney?' The man replied, 'Yes, some connection,' and walked hastily away. He was a professed admirer of Washington, but called Lafayette 'a traitor to Napoleon.'"

It is said that when the school master heard of the exiled Napoleon's death in 1821 he burst into tears and rushed to his room. There he cut his throat with a penknife. The wound was not fatal, and a few years later Ney spent the considerable part of a night burning a trunkful of private papers, and said later to a friend: "If that boy had lived I should not be here." To other acquaintances he showed a locked leather box of papers, which he said would "one day astonish the world." It did not, for the moment the teacher's death was announced in 1846 a mysterious stranger calling himself "Pliny Miles," of New York, spirited the trunk away.

The teacher's handwriting, when compared by experts with fac-similes of Marshal Ney's, was found to be identical with them. Just before his death he told the following remarkable story to Mrs. Mary J. Dalton of Iredell county, N. C.: "I am Marshal Ney. I was told before the hour of execution that my life was to be spared. The soldiers had orders to fire over my head."

If he really was Marshal Ney it seems strange that his wife and three sons in France never came to visit their exile in America, nor communicated, so far as is known, with him in any way. As he lay dying it is said that he would mutter in his delirium: "Now let me die! The Old Guard is defeated!" His local physician told him he could not recover and begged him to clear up the mystery. The dying man raised himself on his pillow and gasped: "Before God, I am Michel Ney, Marshal of France!"

Pensacola Refutes Yarns Against the Navy Yard

S. E. Dobson, president of the Pensacola (Fla.) Commercial association, has written letters to several northern newspapers protesting against misrepresentations regarding Pensacola's fitness for a navy yard. The fight grows out of the plan to centralize the government's navy yard facilities, and a few northern cities are attacking the Florida port. Mr. Dobson refers to the superior location and coaling facilities of Pensacola.

Its Advantages.

Following is a typical letter:

Editor _____: Your paper of July 8 contains an article headed "Fight to Keep Navy Yard," which contains some unwarranted statements in regard to the Pensacola navy yard.

The "sand dunes" on which, according to you, the Pensacola navy yard is built, are peculiar in that they are covered with trees, the navy yard containing one of the most beautiful live oak groves to be found anywhere. The gardens of the officers' quarters produce fine vegetables, and the commandant's flowers are famous. Peculiar sand dunes, aren't they? And just half an hour from Pensacola by an excellent hard road, an electric railway or boat.

The navy yard has some of the most modern buildings and equipment to be found anywhere, notably its powerhouse machine shops, paint shops, ordnance and electrical repair shops and sail loft. The yard was very active from 1902 to 1910, doing much building and repair work and employing about 1,000 men. The colonial in command of the Coast Artillery post here testified before the board of inspection for shore stations, that the defense of the Pensacola navy yard from a hostile fleet was "easy."

A representative of a coal company, which mines 12,000 tons of coal daily, testified before the same board that his company could put 10,000 to 20,000 tons of coal into Pensacola within 72 hours. And his is only one of many Birmingham companies doing business here. That city is only 259 miles by rail from Pensacola, and is the center of a coal and iron district not excelled in this country.

You have a navy yard or stations at Portsmouth, Boston, Newport, New York and Philadelphia—five on a little stretch on North Atlantic coast—and yet you grow excited and indignant when the present administration proposes to consider the rest of the country. You want to consolidate and centralize, but all the "centralization" must be on a little strip of North Atlantic coast.

The things that are likely to happen to interest the navy and marines will happen down this way, not near you, so why shouldn't naval and marine facilities be concentrated here instead of so far away? Especially since we have so many advantages of location, climate and health over you.

Will you kindly publish this correction? Sincerely yours, C. E. DOBSON.

Ponderous Personages

ALEXANDER THE GREAT.

BY GEORGE FITCH,
Author of "At Good Old Siwash"

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Alexander the Great was born in Macedonia, B. C. 356. He was one of King Philip's sons, No. 13, Series B, and was so handsome and accomplished that his loving father got jealous of him and tried to ventilate him with a spear during a social session of the Amalgamated Sons of Thunder, at which a large number of kegs had been tapped.

At this time Macedonia is being pawed over by many armies to its great damage, but at the early age of 16 Alexander was champion of the fighting world and everybody treated it with respect. When Alexander became regent at the age of 16, he organized the Junior Celebrated Macedonian Phalanx and roamed over his enemies so successfully that in a few months he was hoss of Greece and was appointed a personal friend postmaster of Athens.

Alexander at this time was beautiful, accomplished and witty. He was a fine swordsman and a fast runner, owing to the athletic. Every Greek letter society in Hellas was crazy to pledge him, but he stuck to business and organized an army for the conquest of Persia.

At this time Persia stretched almost all over the far east and was fifty times as large as Greece with an army which would have made Kaiser Wilhelm look small and lonesome. But Alexander didn't care. He took over 70,000 foot soldiers and 7,000 cavalry and with his army which was a million troops and a whole fleet of elephants he tunnelled through the opposition time and again with entire success. Alexander's men killed the Persian army by cramps in their wrists and Alexander sent Darius home on ice and took over the country.

At this time Alexander was 25 years old, and his army showed little sign of wear. He conquered Egypt, Mesopotamia and other miscellaneous countries, but finally ran out of worlds to conquer, owing to extremely limited information contained in the geographies of that time, and after weeping bitterly because he had no foes left to swat, he came back to Persia and settled down to a quiet married life with several of the fairest princesses of the realm.

At the age of 33 Alexander died of fever. Even if he had lived longer there was nothing left for him to do but sit at a desk and run the country. When we realize how pitiful it would have been to see the conqueror of the whole world and the most expert swordsman in history, getting down behind a desk for twelve hours a day and wrapping his legs around a chair while trying to sign his name to a commission appointing an assistant weigher observer at Babel-Mandeb, we can understand the kindness of Providence in removing Alexander before the politicians got at him.

Either Alexander was the greatest general the world has ever known, or they has press agents in those days who make our look dumb and bashful.

Ancient Sun Dials.

Record is contained in the Bible of a sun dial set up in 771 B. C. by Ahaz, to commemorate the miraculous healing of his son Hezekiah. A very ancient one was recently discovered lying in the grounds of the ruined castle of Finland, Kilfin, Perthshire, Scotland. For many centuries the occupants of the castle deciphered its many angles as it stood reared on a tall pedestal, reflected in the waters of a fountain. The interval of nearly two thousand years between this dial and that set up by Ahaz shows for how long the dial held its own as an object of utility.

TEXTBOOK QUESTION DISCUSSED BY M'NAIR

He Denies There Is a School Book Trust as Has Been Alleged.

Regarding the school book controversy Professor J. L. McNair, of the Lanier High school of Macon, submits the following:

Macon, Ga., July 17.—Editor Constitution: Because I have devoted the greater number of the years of my life to school and college work as an educator, I feel that I can offer the public some facts and suggestions concerning the textbook question that is now agitating the legislature and the state, without fear of having my motives misunderstood or misrepresented.

The plan to supply textbooks proposed by Hon. C. R. McCrory, of Schley county, is a two-sided proposition, although because only Mr. McCrory's side has so far been presented to the public, it seems that most people have been led to believe that the proposition has only one side. There is a general impression that there is a "school book trust" which controls all the textbooks used in all the schools in the United States and that this book trust has the people of Georgia by the throat and is forcing them to purchase school books at exorbitant prices or at prices higher than those paid elsewhere in this country. Nothing could be further from the truth. The Publishers' Weekly, which is a trade journal of all the publishers of the United States and is the supreme authority in all matters relating to the publication of books, including school books, gives a list of more than 150 publishing concerns that are in part or whole devoted to the manufacture of school books, each of these concerns being absolutely independent of all the others. The books in use in the public schools of Georgia by contract with the publishers are as follows:

Readers—Graded Literature, Five and Second Readers (Charles F. Merrill company), Lee Readers, Books III., IV. and V. (American Book company.)

Arithmetics—Wentworth's New Elementary Arithmetic. Wentworth's Practical Arithmetic (Ginn & Co.)

Grammars—Hyde's Two-Book Course in English, Books I and II (D. C. Heath & Co.)

Geographies—Frye's Elementary Geography, Frye's Higher Geography (Ginn & Co.)

Histories—Beginner's History of our Country (Southern Publishing company), Fiske's United States History (American Book company), Evans' History of Georgia (American Book company).

Agriculture—Dominion's Agriculture (Lippincott Publishing company).

Physiology and Hygiene—Hutchison's Lessons in Physiology and Hygiene (Charles E. Merrill company).

Civics—Peterman's Civil Government (American Book company).

Primer—Wheeler's Graded Primer (Wheeler & Co.)

Spellers—Branson's Speller, First Book (B. F. Johnson Publishing company), Swinton's Word Book (American Book company).

Writing—Writing Hour Series, seven numbers (Charles E. Merrill company.)

These books are sold in Georgia as cheaply as they are anywhere else in the union, and they are books of the highest quality both as to contents and style of manufacture. Most of them are far superior in every respect to the Ontario books. The truth is, unless forced to do so by some such process as obtains in a monarchy or a dependency of a monarchy such as Canada is, no state of the United States would use the Ontario books even for a single day. That the Ontario books are cheap is true. Indeed, that is the only recommendation that they have, but that recommendation surely should not counterbalance the unexcelled suitability of the Georgia state books for the purpose for which they are intended. The general impression that the Ontario books cost nothing more than the prices printed on them is a grave mistake, for first the government of the province has to pay a large sum of money for the preparation of these books, including engravings and plates, before they are put in the hands of publishers for printing and sale. I have before me a letter from Professor James L. Hughes, chief inspector of education, Toronto, Canada, under date of June 13, 1913, which briefly explains the Ontario plan of securing cheap books. The letter is as follows:

The education department of the province has an editor-in-chief, who, under direction of his chief, plans the textbooks to be published. He secures such editorial assistance as he requires, choosing from among educational leaders of the province, of course taking specialists in the particular department about which the book treats. Under his direction the editorial work is completed for a book and the plates of the book made, the government paying all charges, including illustrations. When the plates are ready for publication the government asks the publishers of the province, or anyone else who wishes to tender for the publication, to send in tenders for the rate at which they will agree to publish a book of the exact size required. Specifications for the publication are given in detail, including paper, binding process, quality of cloth, etc. The lowest tender is accepted. The house that secures the right of publication has no expense except the cost of printing and binding the book. The government specifies in the tender form that certain discounts shall be given to the trade or to school boards in quantities of 1,000 copies.

"In two cases, at least, the books are published for the government at less than cost price. Two very large department stores, one of them the largest in the world, tendered. The T. Eaton company got the tender for the readers. They have their own printing plant, and they get the immense advertising, so that their advertising costs them very little. The other house has no printing plant, and they undertook to publish the arithmetics for less than the printer charged them in order to get the advertising."

Now, it must be apparent at once that if Georgia is to secure such prices for textbooks as those that obtain in Ontario, the state must first make a large appropriation for the services of an editor, for engraving, and for making the plates. When this is done, it will quickly be seen that it is impossible to secure for Georgia schools first-class books at any such prices as those that prevail in Ontario.

In the forty-first annual school report, 1912, prepared by Superintendent of Schools M. L. Brittain, there will be found, on pages 34, 35, 36 and 37, a statement regarding school books. This statement includes a proposition from the Byrd Printing company, state printers, for the manufacture of certain books now on the Georgia state list and others on the Ontario list. The Byrd company's proposition includes merely the printing and binding of the books, excluding the sum that must be paid to editors, and for engraving, plates, etc. The prices in this proposition show to any practical printer beyond doubt that it is impossible to get, under the conditions that prevail in Georgia, any such prices for textbooks as those that prevail in Ontario, but that on the contrary, when all is said and done, the prices of books prepared under the Byrd company's proposition would be doubled as large as those that now prevail for books on the Georgia state list, or even larger.

The press of the state has been filled for months with the wildest statements regarding the total cost per annum of school books in Georgia. Mr. McCrory himself has repeatedly stated that the gross sum paid for textbooks was as large as one million dollars a year. Others have stated that the sum approached $2,500,000 a year. The facts are so different from these wild statements as to make such figures as one million dollars or $2,500,000 ridiculous. In the office of State Superintendent Brittain may be found Superintendent Jere M. Pound's report showing the actual cost of all state textbooks sold in Georgia for the first 5-year period under the state uniformity law, the amount being $749,024.91, or an average per annum of $149,804.94. In Superintendent Brittain's office will also be found sworn statements from the publishers that have contracts with Georgia to supply textbooks, showing the gross sales of Georgia state textbooks from January 1, 1909, until June 1, 1913, a period of four and one-half years, the total amount being $655,705.29. If to this sum be added $50,000, the cost of all other school books sold in Georgia during this four-and-one-half year period, which those who are familiar with the facts declare to be larger than the real figures, it will be seen that the total school book bill of Georgia per annum during the past four and one-half years has not exceeded $195,708.29. How completely different are these figures from the guessed-at figures of Mr. McCrory and others who have not taken the trouble to get the facts!

But I have taken the trouble to get a statement of the cost of school books in Mr. McCrory's own county, Schley, during the past four and one-half years, and my figures can easily be verified by anybody who may care to ask me for the source of my information. During the past four and one-half years there were sold in Schley county school books costing $1,313.53, or an average of $494.82 per year. Now, is not that a tremendous bill for school books? I think it altogether likely that there may be more than one citizen of Schley county whose cigar bill has cost in the neighborhood of $494.82; certainly more than one Schley county farmer can be found whose yearly piano bills have exceeded that sum; and yet, in spite of these ridiculously low figures for the cost of school books, what a mighty noise has been made in this state for months past over the so-called robbery of the people by the "book trust!"

In view of such facts as I have herein made public, will not the legislature make a serious mistake if it refuses either the original McCrory bill or the substitute said to be pending in house education committee, before this whole matter of the manufacture, supply and cost of school books is fully investigated by a committee appointed by that body? Why such haste to railroad a bill through the legislature and put upon the state the burden of publishing textbooks? What possible good reason can there be for passing any bill on the subject before a thorough investigation?

Respectfully yours,

J. L. M'NAIR.

KINDERGARTEN BILL IS FAVORABLY REPORTED

Compulsory Education Bill Also Approved by Senate Committee on Education.

The senate committee on education reported favorably on two important bills yesterday, the kindergarten bill and the compulsory education bill. Upon both measures the vote of the committee was unanimous that the bills be reported favorably.

President Randolph Anderson, of the first district, opened the argument in favor of the kindergarten bill and introduced George J. Baldwin, of Savannah, who is president of the Kindergarten association of that city and who has practical experience with kindergartens in that town for the poorer classes for several years.

Among those who favored the passage of the measure in the committee room were Mrs. E. B. Smith, of Atlanta, representing the laboring women of Georgia; Miss Carol Oppenheimer, of Savannah, principal of one of the kindergartens; Miss Wallett Allen, connected with kindergarten work in Atlanta, and C. H. Barnes, of Atlanta Federation of Trades. Mrs. William Nixon, president of the Atlanta Kindergarten association; Mrs. Robert Zahner, Mrs. James R. Little and others were present advocating the measure.

What Bills Require.

The provisions of this act simply allow the public schools of the state to create a kindergarten department wherever it is practical and wherever it is desired by the schools.

The compulsory education bill requires that children between the ages of 8 and 12 and those between 12 and 14, who are not regularly employed, attend school at least twelve weeks out of the year and require of all children an education equal to a common school education through the fourth grade. The bill is termed very lenient in its restrictions and children may be excused from this schooling by the school board for any good reasons rendered by them.

State School Commissioner M. L. Brittain spoke upon the bill, comparing Georgia with other states who had already adopted such a measure and deploring the lack of education among certain classes of children in the state today.

There were several compulsory education bills pending in both houses of the legislature, but at a joint conference of the authors and advocates of these measures the bill of Judge Sweat, which was yesterday reported favorably by the education committee, was chosen as the most desirable bill.

Fight Over Searcy Bill.

The temperance committee of the senate yesterday reported favorably the bill of Senator Searcy which attempts to enforce the enactment of the provisions of the 4% law in Georgia. When this measure comes up for its passage a merry fight is expected between the prohibitionists and the antis of the senate.

Senator Kea's bill making it unlawful for any farm laborer to unlawfully abandon his contract before completing it with intent to defraud his employer, was reported favorably by the committee on agriculture.

A wholesale revision of the rules of the senate was made when the rules committee's report was adopted almost as it stood. President Anderson, the author of the most of the changes, made a similar revision of the house rules in 1909.

In the interest of progress in education in Georgia I appeal to the sober second thought of the legislature, do not rush rashly into the costly mistake made by California, in its attempts without a full investigation, to publish its own school books. Any other course would be unjust to the people of the state and unfair to the school book publishers, whose business is legitimate and beneficent, exonerated statements to the contrary notwithstanding. In the same interest I appeal to the legislature not only to investigate the matter fully, but to see to it that the committee appointed to do the work is unbiased, prejudiced neither in favor of Mr. McCrory's scheme nor in favor of the school book publishers. It would be as unjust to the people to let Mr. McCrory dominate in the selection of members of the committee as it would be to permit the publishers to do so.

Respectfully yours,

I. L. M'NAIR.

CANDLER LOSES OUT BY A NARROW MARGIN

Call for the Question Cuts Off Debate, Killing Chances of Passage.

While the constitutional amendment for the creation of Candler county, which had been favorably recommended by the constitutional amendments committee, came before the house Thursday morning with fair prospects for passage, by a vote of 83 ayes to 80 nays it failed to get the constitutional majority of two-thirds, and was lost, mainly because a call for the question suddenly cut off debate before the opposition had opportunity to present its side to the house.

Mr. Wohlwender, of Musogee, who called the question, stated that it was not his intention in so doing to create a condition of unfairness by shutting off debate, and that at the proper time he would bring it before the house for reconsideration.

Like a Greased Pig.

Some half dozen or more local bills had just gone through the house with the alacrity of a greased pig, when the question of Candler county came up. Mr. Myrick, chairman of the committee on constitutional amendments, and several other members of the house, had spoken in favor of it, when Mr. Wohlwender moved the previous question. His motion carried apparently before the house had realized what its effect would be, and instantly there were objections from all parts of the house. Motions to reconsider, unanimous consents and all parliamentary machinery was called into service, but it was found impossible to reopen the discussion of the amendment.

When the question was put this situation brought forth an extensive explaining of votes. Fully one-third of the nay voters explained that, except for the fact that a hearing of the opposition was cut off, they had intended to vote in favor of the creation of the new county.

Many members in explaining their votes openly insinuated that the enforcing of silence upon the opposition was an attempt to "railroad" the measure through.

After debate that lasted until the hour of adjournment, the resolution of Mr Paulk, of Berrien, to appoint a commission to look into the advisability of the state's purchasing the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic railroad for an extension of the Western and Atlantic to the sea, was adopted.

The report of the appropriations committee, cutting all appretiements to the bone, was filed in the house Thursday. The governor has asked for this bill as early as possible and the matter is expected to be taken up by the house shortly.

By Mr. McGehee of Meriwether—To incorporate Woodberry.

COMMITTEE HEARING FOR DRAINAGE BILL

Only $5,000 Asked for Measure That Would Add Millions to State's Wealth.

A bill by Representative Akin, of Glynn, appropriating $5,000 for a preliminary survey of the swamp lands of Georgia with a view to their drainage was considered by the appropriations committee yesterday. The survey is to be made by surveyors of the federal government and, if the state appropriates $5,000, another $5,000 will be added by the United States.

Mr. Akin, who is president of the Georgia Drainage congress, appeared before the committee to argue for the bill. J. W. Phillips, an expert surveyor of the government, and State Geologist S. W. McCallie also appeared before the committee and told of the great things that could be accomplished by the bill.

No special appropriations were acted upon by the committee yesterday, but several members have expressed themselves in favor fo the Akin measure and it stands a good chances of a favorable report on its merits as a business proposition.

The Definition of "Gold-Filled"

Gold-filled means two layers of solid gold stiffened with a layer of metal alloy between. It makes a firmer case than solid gold, and it costs much less.

If the two plates of gold are heavy enough the case will wear for many years. But irresponsible manufacturers are tempted to roll the gold layers to a mere film. There is nothing to prevent such manufacturers from stamping "Guaranteed for 20 years" inside a brass case washed with gold.

Many jewelers buy and sell by such guarantees. It is a matter of history in the trade that a large number of factories making such cases have gone out of business in a few years, and such guarantees are worthless.

Crescent and James Boss filled cases have been made by the Keystone Watch Case Company for fifty years. They make some of the finest solid gold cases manufactured.

We sell and guarantee these filled cases, and if you buy this quality you are absolutely protected.

$5,000,000 "MELON" FOR EXPRESS PEOPLE

New York, July 17.—The directors of the American Express company decided today to distribute among the stockholders of the company 45,000 shares of the stock of Wells-Fargo & Co., with a market value of nearly $5,000,000, which has been held by the company for several years. As there are 180,000 shares of American Express stock, one share of Wells-Fargo will be allotted for each four shares of the American company's stock. The American Express company obtained the stock several years ago, when it was purchased as part of an agreement whereby it contracted with the Union Pacific railroad for extension of its service over that line. The purchase was made, the directors stated, with the intention of ultimately distributing the Wells-Fargo stock thus obtained.

For Tax Reform, Men and Women Should Work Together

By Mrs. Hugh M. Willet

On the front page of Tuesday's Constitution the clever cartoonist pictured an attractive young woman teacher standing at the gateway of her rural school grounds, gazing wistfully into the beyond. She asks the pertinent question: "I wonder what they are going to do for me?" She holds in one hand a Constitution, with leading headlines across the paper, "Georgia Legislature in Busy Session," and in the other hand an empty pocketbook. The gopher declares the state's shame. "Not one cent in six months." "Waiting" is the significant name given the picture.

Direct Call to Men and Women.

Is not the artist's presentation of this much-discussed subject, "The delayed payment of the teachers," a direct call to the men and women of Georgia to right these long-existing wrongs?

Do we not all agree that one of the best assets of a state is the large body of men and women teachers to whom is entrusted the molding of its children? Surely they deserve a better fate.

The Isolated Rural School.

No artist can paint the half that is to be told concerning the conditions of our isolated rural schools. As I write, the memory of a remote one-room school which I visited several years ago stands out vividly. The state had no money to provide a school house, even though there were sixty white children to attend the school. The old log church, used on week days, was lily lighted, no glass windows, and only wooden shutters as a protection from the storms. There were no modern seats or desks, only the long low benches without backs, such as are used in primitive country meeting houses. The teacher bore no outward signs of illness for her work. She lacked neatness; her mental vision was dwarfed; her horizon was bounded by the mountains encircling her. As we entered, she stood before her pupils with a long chastening rod which she used to compel obedience because of slavish fear.

A Discredit to the State.

Do you not agree with me that such a teacher reflects discredit on an enlightened state? Since this visit, the state's standard for teaching has been raised, and the three state supervisors hold county institutes for teachers in all of the counties. What incentive does the state hold out to teachers to be inspired when the pay is less than that of a day-laborer, and the time of payment merely a promise?

Slowly, improvements are being made, but far too long have the monster dragons, ignorance, indifference and selfishness blindly fought and retarded the progressive influences which make for the state greatness.

Georgia can never reach that pinnacle which is her rightful heritage until illiteracy is driven from her boundaries. Until the masses are educated, we can never hope to obtain conditions ideal. Education is dependent upon legislation, and legislation is necessarily controlled by the body politic—the masses.

Must Work Together.

Before the general assembly there are a number of constructive bills of vital concern to Georgia's present and future prosperity. Men and women throughout the state who are interested should work together to have these bills passed. This can be done by giving active support to their legislators.

Foremost, among those of great import, are the compulsory attendance bill, the kindergarten bill, the prompt payment of teachers, and corrective home for wayward girls. The keynote to the complete success of each of these hinges, to a marked degree, upon the tax reform bill.

When this last bill goes on the statute books, and local taxation is enacted in all the counties, Georgia will then take her proper place as the Empire State of the South.

HEAT RECORD BROKEN AT AN EARLY HOUR

Record for the Year Equalled When the Mercury Rose to 96 Degrees.

Atlanta's heat wave surged upward again yesterday and before the end of the afternoon the temperature had reached the highwater mark of 96 degrees. This is the highest temperature for July, and higher than any other since that mark was reached on June 28.

The entire day was hot from 8 o'clock in the morning when, after a night during which the minimum temperature was 75 degrees, the mercury registered 80. The high temperature of 80 degrees at that hour of the morning breaks the record for the present summer.

From breakfast time on, the weather continued hot and by noon the thermometer in the government bureau registered 80 degrees. It was at 3:30 o'clock that the maximum for the day was reached.

Out of the fierce heat which beat down upon the streets and probably caused an actual temperature of over 100 degrees on the down town streets, there came one form of relief. The air was dryer than usual and there was none of the oppressive humidity in the atmosphere which causes prostrations in the northern and eastern coast cities.

With the news of the hottest day of the month another statement comes from the weather bureau, and that is to the effect that Friday will be just as hot. "There's no sign of a change in conditions," says the weatherman, "and anybody who wants to know how he will feel at noon Friday, only needs to remember how he felt at the same hour Thursday."

Despite the high temperatures of the entire day, there were no reports of heat prostrations and although people, and many dumb brutes with thoughtless drivers, suffered from the heat, there were no cases of people or animals falling in the streets.

COUNTY OF HARDEMAN WINS OVER NORTHEN

Two Proposed Counties Took in Practically Same Territory. One New County Favored.

The constitutional amendment for the creation of Hardeman county received the support of the committee on constitutional amendments Thursday afternoon, when the advocators and opposers of that county and the proposed new county of Northen produced their arguments.

The committee declined to recommend the creation of Northen county to the house for passage.

These two new counties are contesting for practically the same territory, the main fight being on the location of the county seat. The proposed county seat of Hardeman county is Alma, while it is sought to make Nichols the county seat of Northen.

The committee made it plain that they were of the opinion that one or more new counties were needed in this territory, and asked the supporters of Hardeman and Northen counties whether they could not get together on a compromise.

PRESTON TO COMMAND VETERANS OF GEORGIA

Other Officers Elected at Close of Reunion at Brunswick. Governor Makes Address.

Brunswick, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) After hearing an address from Governor Slaton and electing officers for the ensuing year, the Confederate Veterans of Georgia, who have been in annual reunion here, adjourned this afternoon, leaving shortly after adjournment for a boat ride around the harbor, as guests of the people of Brunswick.

While Governor Slaton did not expect to deliver an address when he arrived in the city this morning, after viewing the parade and being urged to make a short talk by many of the old veterans, he agreed to do so. The superior courtroom was so crowded when the governor was ready to speak that the meeting adjourned and the speaking was held in the open air, the governor talking from the steps of the courthouse to a mammoth crowd. His address was brief, but in it he paid a glorifying tribute to the veterans of the state. In concluding his able address, the governor said:

"Gentlemen of the Confederacy, I come not as one individual, but as an executive. I come as the representative of three million people, and conclude by telling you that the thought in every mind, the pulsation in every heart in the people that we are to become in the future is due to what you soldiers have done in the past."

At the final session of the veterans this afternoon J. W. Preston, of Macon, was elected commander-in-chief of the Georgia division. General Davenport was placed in nomination, but in an eloquent and touching speech he declined, and Colonel Preston was elected without opposition. Brigade commanders elected were the following:

Northern Brigade—M. C. Martin, Atlanta.

Eastern Brigade—J. A. Thomas, Dublin.

Western Brigade—L. W. Mobley, Vienna.

Southern Brigade—W. J. Horster, Dublin.

Cavalry Commander—F. Gilmore

When the matter of selecting the meeting place for the 1914 reunion was reached, it was found that not a single invitation had been extended by any city in Georgia. Consequently the place of meeting and the time was left to a committee to be appointed by the new commander.

MANY RUMORS AFLOAT REGARDING GRAND JURY

Among These Is One That Effort Will Be Made to Indict Conley.

That the grand jury would meet possibly today or tomorrow and take steps toward indicting James Conley, the negro sweeper of the National Pencil factory, was a persistent rumor in circulation Thursday. From Foreman W. D. Beattie came the statement that he had not called for a meeting of the grand jury and that as far as he knew there would be no call for action taken. Solicitor Hugh M. Dorsey also declared that he had issued no call for the grand jury and knew nothing of any such action.

"I have not issued a call for a meeting," explained Mr. Beattie, "and as far as I am concerned the grand jury will not take steps to indict Conley. Of course, the members of the grand jury have the right to come together and to take any steps they may desire, and I am speaking only for myself in saying that no steps will be taken to start an investigation of Conley's alleged confession."

"There is nothing new in the Mary Phagan murder case, as far as I know," said the solicitor," and I have issued no call for the grand jury. The state is continuing its work and will be ready on July 28 for the trial of Leo M. Frank."

Attorneys Reuben R. Arnold and Luther Z. Rosser held a consultation Thursday afternoon in Mr. Arnold's office at which they discussed the phases of their case, according to Mr. Arnold. At the conference it was said that Judge L. S. Roan, who is due to preside over the Frank trial, was in consultation with lawyers on both sides and that there was a possibility of the case being postponed.

Both Solicitor Dorsey and Attorney Arnold denied this, and Attorney Arnold stated that the only consultation was that between him and Mr. Rosser.

A Standard Maintained

In determining the policy of our business we went a step further than the average shoe dealer.

We set a standard not only of quality and value in the shoes we sell, but also a standard of freshness in our styles.

We watch our styles like the good grocer watches his stock of eggs and vegetables. We never sell an out-of-date shoe, because we don't have them in our store.

Our at-home factory connection helps us to set this standard and to keep it.

We don't lose money on dead styles and this money we put into the everyday value of our shoes.

Real shoe value talks loudest on the foot of a satisfied customer, and so in order to get more Atlanta men started on Atlanta-made shoes we are going to sell between now and August 1, 300 pairs of fresh, snappy Red Seal Low Cuts at $2.65, $3.15, $3.45 and $4.15.

It's not a clearance sale—it's an introduction. Come early.

Willing to Face Bigamy Charge To Wed the Man She Loves

Mrs. Effie Drummond, a sad-faced girl of 22, would run the risk of facing bigamy charges in order to marry Joe North, the young structural worker who was arraigned in police court yesterday under suspicion of having procured the girl for the scarlet trade.

She was forced to testify against the man. With a great show of reluctance on her part, the recorder exacted apparently unwilling testimony from her which resulted in action against North, which binds him to higher courts under bond of $200.

When North's case was called, the girl pleaded with Judge Broyles to allow the marriage. He asked if she had been wed before. She answered that she had been married in South Carolina, but that the courts of that state had granted a divorce.

"You were divorced in South Carolina?" queried the judge.

"Yes," she answered. "A year ago."

"You certainly were not!" contradicted the recorder. "South Carolina is the one spot on the map where divorces of no kind are permitted."

When confronted with the knowledge that if the court had not learned of the falsity and had granted her marriage to North she would have been subject to bigamy charges, the girl said:

"I will run even the chances of jail for bigamy to marry him."

Arrested in Raid.

The Drummond girl was arrested several days ago in a police raid on a resort operated by Lula Bell, on Peters street. North escaped arrest by a spectacular escape from the second floor and across rear fences. He was taken Wednesday.

She was sent by the recorder to Martha's home. Thursday she was brought back to police station to testify against the prisoner, one admitted relations with him, but declared that they intended marrying at the earliest opportunity.

She also admitted having filled an appointment with a strange man, which appointment was made by North. She did it, her statement was, because the youth instructed her to. She also told a revolting story of a night's experience when she had been made intoxicated by North.

The prisoner's mother, an aged woman, who also strove to get the court's permission for the marriage, defended her son. She pleaded with the recorder to put him on probation, and was supported in the plea by Probation Officer S. J. Coogler. She left the courtroom in tears.

STOVALL INCOME TAX BILL IS REPORTED

After some discussion in the ways and means committee yesterday, the income tax bill of Representative Stovall, of Elbert, was recommended for passage by a vote of 9 to 5.

The bill provides for tax of 1 per cent on incomes of individuals and corporations in excess of $4,000. It exempts from taxation the living expenses of persons.

The author expects that $160,000 per year will be added by the bill to the revenue of the state from public service corporations alone.

SMITH IS INDIGNANT AT TREATMENT RECEIVED

M. F. Smith, vice president and secretary of the Eagle Stamp works, who was arrested along with B. T. Glenn, manager of a Whitehall street theater, on suspicion of having been responsible for the illness of Miss Mabel Parker, a chorus girl, went to Mayor Woodward with his complaint Thursday afternoon.

Mayor Woodward referred Smith to the police committee, which was in session. After hearing the complaint and offering Smith sympathy the committee decided that the matter was one for Chief Beavers and the police commission to thrash out. Smith left the city hall in an indignant mood. He stated that he was not through with the affair.

RAILWAY CLUB HOLDS ITS ANNUAL BARBECUE

NO SALE OF INFLUENCE BY JUSTICE COHALAN

Albany, N. Y., July 17.—Charges preferred against Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan by the bar association of New York upon which his removal from the bench was asked, were dismissed tonight by the legislature. Previous to the adoption of the resolution dismissing the charges the report of the joint judiciary committee, which heard the evidence against the accused jurist, was received and accepted.

The vote to dismiss the charges stood 33 to 4 in the senate and 115 to 15 in the house.

The report of the committee declared that none of the charges against Justice Cohalan had been proved; that a case for legislative action had not been established and recommended that the proceedings be dismissed and that no further action be taken by the legislature.

Justice Cohalan was accused of having sold his influence to obtain New York city contracts.

SUICIDE PACT FORMED BY MAN AND HIS WIFE

New York, July 17.—Maurice Doherty, aged 30, and his wife, 28, are in a hospital today technically under arrest charged with attempting to carry out a suicide pact. They had been married only a month. Doherty was formerly an attendant in the immigration hospital on Ellis Island and his wife until recently was supervising nurse in the Washington Heights hospital.

The two were found last night in a critical condition from poisoning in a room in a little East Side hotel. They left a note saying:

"No one but ourselves knows the reason, but it is compelling."

There is still some doubt that they will recover.

KEMP KILLED BY FALL INTO TANNING MACHINE

Buford, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Shirley Kemp, a young white man employed at the tannery of Bona Allen, incorporated, slipped and fell into a bark machine this afternoon, badly mangling the lower part of the body and killing him instantly. LITTLE-M'KINLEY.

Milledgeville, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—Shirley Carnegie Tuesday evening of Miss Rebecca-Little and Mr. Archibald Carlisle McKinley was a most beautiful affair. The ceremony was performed at the attractive suburban home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Little, and was a quiet one, witnessed by only the most intimate friends of the family. The bride and groom are both from splendid representative families of this city and are popular members of the younger society set. They will make their home in this city.

She Leaps to Death.

Before her marriage, she was Miss Edith Gillen, and her home was in Florida. She had suffered from nervous trouble.

AT THE THEATERS.

"Les Miserables."

(At the Grand.)

"Les Miserables" the moving pictures will be the attraction at the Grand at daily matinee and evening performances all of next week. This wonderful story by Victor Hugo, written more than fifty years ago, but dealing with a very live topic of today, was and is, was plays dramatized in France some months ago at a cost of more than $100,000. The greatest French actors were used to portray the characters of the book, and the original scenes described by Hugo were visited and used for the stage in making the pictures.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Talented Valerie Bergere and her company in "Judgment" sustain headline honors in a splendid fashion, and there has never been a greater hit registered at the Forsyth than Brist Woods, and all the others on the bill are helping to make the show a pleasing entertainment. The management declares next week's bill will be of unusual worth. The headline attraction will be John P. Conroy, the world famous life saver and his Diving Models, in the greatest swimming and diving act that has been placed on any stage.

"Hotel a la Carte."

(At the Bijou.)

"Hotel a la Carte," the merry musical tabloid with the catchy title is proving a most entertaining attraction for patrons of the Bijou. Being snap, ginger and up-to-date features this musical tabloid excels most of the recent musical comedies that have been presented at the popular Marietta street theater.

Joe Scott, Miss Mamie Filmore, Walter Welbeiser, and Gordon Noonan are all clever in the principal roles, and the vaudeville specialties introduced form pleasing features of the entertainment.

The musical comedy announced for next week is the latest musical success entitled "Good Morning, Judge."

SLIP OF PAPER STOOD FOR ABOUT $88,000,000

New York, July 17.—With a slip of paper in his pocket representing about $88,000,000, Frederick V. S. Crosby, treasurer of the Union Pacific Railroad company, walked into the office of the Central Trust company today. He turned the paper over to the trust company and thereby completed the first step in the dissolution of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads, as decreed by the courts.

The document was a certificate for Union Pacific's holdings of Southern Pacific exclusive of those turned over yesterday to the Pennsylvania railroad in exchange for that road's holdings of Baltimore and Ohio. The trust company was designated by the courts to act as trustee pending distribution of the stock among prsons not holders of Union Pacific stock.

Salisbury, England, July 17.—Major A. W. Hewtson, of the Royal Artillery corps and a member of the military flying corps, was killed at the army aerodrome here today when his monoplane fell 100 feet. The machine took too sharp a turn and overturned.

Schneidemuehl, Germany, July 17.—The military dirigible baloon Schuette-Lanz was torn from its moorings here by a gale this morning. A soldier guarding the balloon was caught up in the cordage and carried to a height of 600 feet, whence he fell to the ground and was killed.

The dirigible landed an hour later about two miles away, seriously damaged.

Kills Negro in Pullman.

Jacksonville, Fla., July 17.—After a quarrel Ben Henton, white, a Pullman equipment checker, and A. Jackson, a negro car cleaner, met about 9 o'clock this morning in a Pullman sleeper in which they were about to begin their work and after the negro attempted to kill Henton with an iron bar the white man drew his pistol while fighting off the grip of the negro and killed him instantly, firing two shots into his right side.

DELAMATER IS FINED FOR CREATING SCENE

Druggist Appeared in Court in Battered Condition—Wife Testifies Against Him.

With a puffed and purple eye shielded by a pair of big goggles, Dr. Ira Delamater, the well-known druggist, appeared in police court yesterday afternoon to answer to charges of disorderly conduct which had grown out of a stormy visit to the home of his wife the previous night.

W. T. Cammack, of 64 Currier street, the railroad man who had inflicted the swollen optic, stood behind Delamater and openly admired the work his viewer his handiwork with pleasure. He had whipped the druggist, he testified, when Delamater had invited him to the street with an ugly word.

Mrs. Delamater was also in court, testifying against her husband, from whom she has been trying to get a divorce for several months. A stir was created in the courtroom when she declared that when she had been granted alimony her husband had promptly gone into bankruptcy and had not given her a cent as a result.

Testimony developed that Delamater, who has been restrained by the courts from visiting the home of his wife, went to her residence Wednesday night in an intoxicated condition, and, upon being ordered away, created a scene. Mrs. Delamater took refuge in the home of Mr. Cammack.

Delamater, it was stated, followed her there and began cursing Cammack. The fight ensued, in which Delamater was soundly thrashed.

He was fined $10.75. No charges were made against Cammack.

PELS WIN A SEE-SAW GAME IN TENTH

EDITED BY
Dick Jemison

WHIFFS

Is Runt Yet.

THE GULLS are far from being out of the Southern league pennant hunt. With their captain, Charley Starr, back in the lineup and playing regularly, the Gulls present a more formidable front than they have in the past few weeks. Starr is to the Gulls what Butterfield is to the Lookouts. They make those clubs formidable.

Should Be Help.

Lefty Clark should be a tremendous help to the Crackers, that is, if he can deliver the service in the box of ball he has showed as a member of the Vancouver team in the Northwestern league last season. He worked thirty-four games in all. In thirty-two he got credit for win and loss, twenty-three being completed and nine dropped. In these games he allowed an average of only five hits to the game. He walked an average of only one man to the game. Clark fielded .930 and batted .205.

Reports Today.

IF CLARK reports as per schedule he should join the Crackers in Pelzerville today. On his arrival Jim Brady will probably be handed his walking papers. Brady, a veteran, right-handed wazu worked hard for the locals, and at times pitched good ball, but of late he has been hit pretty hard, and a repeat of scene might work wonders with him.

Hitting Hard.

HAM REYNOLDS, the Georgia boy who caught part of last season for the Crackers, and was with the Pelicans in playing the ball for the Beaumont team in the Texas league. The following clipping from a Houston paper is a sample of his work: "Reynolds was the hitting sensation of the afternoon. The former backstop registered a home run, a two-bagger and two singles in four trips to the plate. And besides he received once on a double steal." Very useful day—eh, what?

Still Bolstering.

NASHVILLE evidently is set on making a good showing in the present pennant scrap. Reports from Nashville are to the effect that Owner Dahlstrom management is after a hard-hitting infielder, who will be landed in a few days. Schwartz ought to look after his pitching staff. With the excellent fielding that the Vols show, if they had an air-tight pitching the hitting would not be needed so much.

Good Live Bout.

TONIGHT'S bout at the Auditorium-Armory should prove one of the best ever staged here. Reports from Memphis are to be believed. Jake Abel is a very much improved boxer. White, who is too heavy for a featherand too light for a lightweight, is admittedly the best 126 pounder in the country. He will concede Abel about 7 pounds tonight, but does not fear the handicap. We predict both boys on their feet at the end of the tenth round.

Why He Failed.

JIM M'LEER, president of the Boston Red Sox, has proven why he failed as a manager. His methods of late have never been productive of results. Why he should blame Jake Stahl for the poor showing of the Red Sox this season is beyond us. How can any one blame a manager when the efforts and depths him of the services of six or his stars, not all at one time, but at odd times sufficient to keep the machine from running smoothly. Jake sensibly quit for good. We call it poor appreciation of his efforts last season.

A Peculiarity.

BUCK HERZOG, the hero of the world's series of 1912, is not the regular third baseman of the Giants this year. Buck is doing utility duty, while Shafer is playing regularly. Herzog is one of the freaks of the game. When there is nothing at stake he does not play his best. He is not a steady, day in-and day out player. But in the moments of the supreme test, when everything depends on the play, Herzog is the greatest third baseman in the game. If you will look back you'll notice that Herzog was used in the Philly series that put the Giants in the lead. He fielded sensationally and batted hard and timely. And we predict that he will supplant Shafer at third when the world's series comes off this fall. Charlie is the "crisis kid."

Wilmington Shoot.

Wilmington, Del., July 17.—Five amateur marksmen were tied for first place in the eastern handicap, the feature event of the eighth annual eastern handicap trap shooting tournament here today. On the strength of their scores at 100 targets, the first leaders are: M. L. Wise, of Marysville, Pa., George Hiwell, of Northumberland, Pa., H. A. Hall, Jr., of Wilmington, each a score of 95 out of a possible 100. The tournament will be concluded tomorrow.

H. H. Sloan, of Philadelphia, was high amateur in the three day shooting, breaking 462 in a possible 600. Charles G. Spencer, of St. Louis, was high professional, with 578 breaks.

M. D. Gibbs, of Union City, Tenn., and Lester S. Germany, of Aberdeen, Md., professionals, today led their field with 100 straight each.

McDonough Defeats Newborn.

McDonough, Ga. July 17.—(Special.) The McDonough team took the third straight game for the Newborn team today by a score of 9 to 6. This was the sixth defeat this season for Newborn's crack pitcher Sams, who proved easy for the McDonough team.

Conzelman Fans Ten Batters But Is Wild and Hit Hard; Pelicans Win In Tenth

By Sam L. Gilbert.

New Orleans, July 17.—(Special.)—Billy Smith's Atlanta Crackers were given a surprise party Thursday when they invaded Birdville, the locals winning in the tenth, 6 to 5.

Chief Frank's fricassed celler champions came to life in some unusual places, for with the count five all in the tenth and two of the frayed and bearded birdies out, "Reb" Williams drew a pass largely through the kindness of Umpire Jack Fifield. Johnny Clancy followed with a clean single to right, and Williams raced to third, and Leo Angemeier astonished even his staunchest admirers by hustling up the battle with a bingle past short.

Finis Wilson had a shade on Conzelman in the hurling end of it, and our boys, bashful though they be, deserved to win.

Out of the long-drawn contest glittered a few twinklers, and Clarence Kraft, a utility player recalled by New Orleans from the Cotton States, was one of them. He batted in a run in the first inning with a single in the center, and in the seventh inning he poked a screaming drive which blipped the Pernitt cigar sign for $25.

Bisland and Alperman played well for the Crackers. Chapman had an unholy number of putouts and, "Checks" caught a swell game considering the fact that Conzelman was very wild at times. On both occasions when Kraft stole on Chapman, the delivery of Conzelman was very wooly and weird.

Bailey Drops Fly.

"Connie" found it hard to control the pellet, but fanned ten of the Pels, and might have gotten by had it not been for a muff of Bill Bailey's when the sun got in the left fielder's eyes and caused him to drop Daley's fly in the second period.

Finis Wilson will pitch Friday against Price or Dent.

The Crackers got a running start, but were soon headed. In the first round Long was walked, Welchonce was pinked, Alpermann sacrificed, and Hendryx, covering first, muffed Williams' leave. Long scoring. Smith's sacrifice fly brought in Welchonce, and Bisland's bingle tallied Alpermann, Adler hit safely to right, but Kyle tossed Bizz out taking third, and Bailey skied to Clancy.

That was the last of the Atlanta scoring until the eighth, when doubles by Alpermann and Bisland and Agler's fantastic fumble tallied Bailey. Williams throwing Manush's roller to first instead of the plate, netted two runs.

Manush, incidentally, is looking good, but his relieving Bailey in the eighth did not aid or assist the Atlanta outfit very materially.

Pels Tie It.

Our boys again went one in the first and in the second they corralled two more, tying the score. A pass to Angemeier, Bailey's muff and Daley's fly which allowed each to score; a pass was issued to Kyle and Hendryx's single to right that scored Daley did the trick. Tim was out, Long to Bisland, trying to stretch it.

The Pels looked like they were going to snow the Crackers completely under in the fourth. Clancy walked to start with. Angemeier's long drive to the second fell between Alpermann and Welchonce, who were bowing to each other a la Gaston-Alphonse.

Wilson to left, filling the bases. However, Daley rolled to Agler and Clancy was forced at the pan. Kyle rolled to Alpermann and Angy was out at the rubber.

Conzelman spoiled it for his mates by uncorking a wild pitch, Wilson scoring. Hendryx skied to Alpermann, Kraft's two-sacker tied the score, and his steal of third and Williams' single sent in a Pelican run in the seventh.

Atlanta tied the count in the eighth, but was beaten in the tenth.

Memphis, Tenn. July 17.—Liebhardt held Chattanooga to three scattered hits today while his teammates pounded Grimes freely and Memphis won, 3 to 0, the fifth successive victory for the local team, after a long list of defeats. Snappy fielding helped the Memphis pitcher. Butler, with three singles to his credit, was best at bat. Grimes, who drove out a triple, was the only Chattanooga player to reach third base.

CHAPPELLE JOINS WHITE SOX TODAY

Chicago, July 17.—Larry Chappelle telegraphed Charles Comiskey, owner of the Chicago American, today that he would report tomorrow ready to play. Comiskey has been perturbed by the unexplained absence of his high-priced star.

He bought Chappelle to get a hard-hitting outfielder for his club, and paid the Milwaukee association back $15,000 and two players for him. Chappelle packed his grip and left Milwaukee, but since then Comiskey had heard nothing from him.

"I got word from Chappelle from his home town, McCleskey, Ill.," said Comiskey today. "He said he went down to see his mother about the change, and that he would be on hand to play tomorrow. If so, we will produce a player who is a uniform and see what he can do."

Cobb Back Today.

Detroit, Mich., July 17.—President Ban Johnson announced that Ty Cobb, suspended recently for an argument with Umpire Hildebrand, will be back in the game tomorrow.

HANDICAP EVENT WILL BE FEATURE

At the Motordrome Tonight. Six Riders on Track at One Time—Also Regular Program of Events.

Another series of Motordrome races are scheduled for tonight. And the big feature is a handicap—in which event six riders will appear on the track at the same time.

In all the meets of the past four men have been the limit. Once the management tried to get five men on the track at once. But the riders balked. They said it was too dangerous. Since then they have tried the track carefully, and found that it is safe enough as tilted track to go and have agreed to run a handicap event in which six may start.

In the handicap, Renel, Lockner and *Shields will start with a lap handi*cap. Richards, Graves and McNeil will start from scratch.

Just how this affair will be a tremendous team match for Richards, Graves and McNeil will furnish pace for each other in their match dash to overtake the handicap men. The race will last for six laps. In that distance the scratch men must pick up the handicap men. Whether they can do it or not will never be known until the race is run.

Certain it is that they will have to ride faster than they rode before to accomplish the trick. Of course, the handicap men will team work, and will try to drag each other along fast enough to keep ahead of the men who are scratching them. At the finish, when all six get on even terms, all will forget about teamwork and there will be one grand scramble at the finish.

This race looks big.

Also the match race at one time will mean fine doings. With four there is enough close calls and plenty of clever excitement. With six there will be big times for fair.

Here is the program for tonight's meet:

Motordrome Purse.

(2-mile heats, 2-mile final.)

First Heat—Graves, Renel and Shields.

Second Heat—McNeil, Lockner and Lewis.

Final—Two miles.

Atlanta Sweepstakes.

Second Heat—Richards, Graves and Renel.

Dixie Handicap.

YANKS-WHITE SOX TRADE IS UP TO BAN JOHNSON

Detroit, Mich., July 17.—President Johnson, of the American league, will not interfere in the release of Jake Stahl by Boston, but he personally will decide the question raised by the recent trade between the New York and Chicago American League clubs involving Hal Chase, Rollie Zeider and Borton.

It will not be necessary to take the questions involved in the New York-Chicago trade before the national commission, according to President Johnson. "As soon as I get the official report of the whole affair, I'll take care of the matter myself," he said.

Everything Is In Readiness For Tonight's Boxing Show At the Auditorium-Armory

Tonight's Card.

Jake Abel v. Charlie White—10 rounds.

Kid Young v. Charlie Lee—10 rounds.

Young Abe Attell v. Tim Callahan —4 rounds.

This is the excellent boxing card that the Fitch tournament bouts has arranged for its show at the Auditorium-Armory tonight. Thirty-four rounds of fistic battles are scheduled. The main bout will go on promptly at 8:30 o'clock.

Jake Abel and his manager, Blacky Raggio, arrived in Atlanta yesterday at noon as per their schedule. They left Memphis Wednesday night, as they advised The Constitution's sporting editor in a late last night.

Charlie White and his manager, Nate *Lewis, will positively arrive this morn*ing. The following wire was received by The Constitution's sporting editor Thursday morning:

White's Telegram.

"Cincinnati, Ohio, July 17.—Train missed connection here. We arrive in the morning sure.

(Signed) "NATE LEWIS."

According to their schedule they were due to get into Atlanta shortly before midnight last night, but missing the connection will put them in here early this morning. They will call on the sporting editor during the day, and any fight fan that wishes to talk to White on arrival can satisfy them by calling the sporting editor on the phone.

The Auditorium-Armory should be one of the classiest mills ever staged in this city. Abel has improved 50 per cent from his former appearances here, and Memphis fans have made some bets that Jake can win the decision.

But this White carries one of the most wicked punches of any of the little fellows in the game today. Considering that he only weighs 126 pounds, and has to give away weight in every battle, his punch is said to be a beast. Jack Britton says that Charley has the best kick of any man he has faced, and Jack ought to know.

Jake Cleverer.

Jake will probably carry a little more boxing skill and more clever footwork into the ring tonight than White, while the latter will have the most experience and the better punch. Jake should make a mill extremely interesting. The speed of the two men is about equal.

The rest of the card should furnish plenty of excitement and furnish the fans with good sport in anticipation of the main bout.

Young Abe Attell, the speedy little local bantam, faces Tim Callahan, the Savannah slugger, in a four-round opener. Speed and boxing ability against the punch—which will win?

Eddie Hanlon and Terry Nelson will have one of those old-time punishment-absorbing mills, a give-and-take affair from beginning to end, with the chances that both boys will be on their feet at the finish, but fighting like a couple of wild cats.

Kid Young and Charlie Lee, in the 10-round semi-windup, should be a great card. Both boys can hit like a ton of brick for little fellows, and the old kay-o is likely to be landed by either at any stage during the mill.

This telegram was verified later by The Constitution's correspondent at Cincinnati, who wired as follows:

"Dick Jemison, Sporting Editor, The Constitution — Charley White, who fights in Atlanta tomorrow night, was delayed here, but is now on his way. He will arrive there in the morning."

The prices range from 50 cents to $2. Seats can be purchased at the Tumlin Brothers' stores, at Shepherd's Segar Shop or at the Auditorium box office.

COTTON DECLINED UNDER REALIZING

Market Opened at Advance, But Liverpool Cables Were Disappointing and Scattered Realizing Sent Prices Off.

New York, July 17.—Today's news indicated little or no change in the weather conditions considered responsible for recent nervousness over the new crop outlook, but the cotton market was much less active than yesterday, and prices sagged off, under realizing, with the close steady at a net advance of 1 point on July, while other months were from two to eight points lower.

The failure of the weather map to suggest any immediate prospect of rain in the belt, and a bullish private crop report, inspired some scattering demand during the early trading, and the market opened steady, with a net advance of 1 to 3 points, with active months selling about 2 to 4 points net higher right after the call. Liverpool, however, was rather disappointing, as a result of continental selling of near months, and the character of the trading here seemed to color claims that the scattering of weeks of short interest had been pretty well eliminated. If anything, there were more complaints from the southwest than there were yesterday, most of them reporting that the plant was shading, and, taken at their face value, the condition figures of a local crop reporting bureau indicated deterioration of about 1.4 per cent in the crop outlook since the end of last month; but these figures seemed insufficient to inspire any fresh buying for long account, and prices soon turned easier under scattered realizing. Further shipments from the local stock, and reports from the south very favorable in its price views on old crop cotton, caused continued nervousness as to the near-month situation, which was reflected in the relatively steady ruling of July, while reports of high temperatures in the eastern belt encouraged a little scattering demand during the early afternoon.

The weather appeared to be a trifle cooler in the sotuhwest, however, and the realizing movement became a little more active in the late trading, with active months closing at practically the lowest.

It is reported southwestern railroads are preparing to handle a large cotton crop this season, and, notwithstanding scattered complaints, bearish traders claim that the dry, hot weather is hastening maturity without causing any serious damage.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, July 17.—The cotton market held fairly steady during the morning session today, but in the afternoon considerable selling displayed and prices fell off for a small net decline. Dry weather in the belt, and the promise of more the same, caused moderate buying and small covering early in the day, but the afternoon offerings increased on reports of freer offerings of new crop cotton and pessimistic advices via the weekly Dallas crop bulletin. At no time were either bulls or bears aggressive and the volume of business was rather small.

The market opened steady, unchanged to 3 points lower, compared with the final quotations of yesterday. Offers were not as good as bids and fractional gains were made on covering and scattered buying, the belt as portrayed by the weather bureau and the crop reports continued fair weather for the entire cotton region. It was claimed early in the day that spot interests were getting more of the cotton and that the scarcity of the staff made it appear that the demand for spot cotton was not as large as the supply.

At the highest of the morning prices were unchanged to 1 point up, compared with yesterday's close. In the afternoon the market sagged gradually and showed net declines of from 3 to 8 points under yesterday's last quotations. The close was steady at 3 to 7 points net decline.

Hubbard Bros. & Co.

New York, July 17.—Cables were slightly low, but in accordance with this morning, though the lack of offerings caused a steady market during the day until near the close, when one line of cotton was sold. The weather is more favorable, felt over the high temperatures in the southwest will be felt at all cooler today; prospects are for warmer weather again tomorrow. The condition in Texas is fast approaching a point where it will be necessary to have rain, or the crop will be very quiet.

Liverpool is due to come unchanged on the near and 3½ down on the distant deliveries.

Country Produce.

Chicago, July 17.—Butter unchanged.

Eggs unchanged; receipts, 12,183 cases.

Potatoes higher at 80@1.00 per receipts, 60 cars.

Cheese steady and unchanged; receipts, 1,727 cases.

Gibert & Clay.

New York, July 17.—The market showed little strengthm today. Weather reports continue good and it looks more and more every day as though Texas was going to raise a bumper crop. The public is doing little, and it is always the buying of the public that carries the weight of the cotton during the period of the heavy movement. Conservative people see little on the long side just now. The close was at a decline of 6 to 7 points on new crop months.

Liverpool is due to come 3½ down on new crop months.

WHEAT DROPPED ON BIG RECEIPTS

Arrivals Broke All Records. Market Closed a Shade to One-Eighth Off. Corn and Oats Made Gains.

Chicago, Ill., July 17.—Huge receipts at primary points today acted as an offset for bullish sentiment in the wheat pit. Accordingly, the market closed steady at a shade to 1-8 under last night. Corn finished with a gain of a sixteenth to 1-2@5-8; oats up 1-4 to 3-8, and provisions showing an advance of 10 to 25c.

Arrivals of wheat, as reported from the chief terminal cities, amounted to the extraordinary total of 1,465,000 bushels. The highest previous aggregate for 24 hours was 1,340,000, and was the result of unusually active shipping stimulated by fear of reciprocity with Canada. Today's receipts, which contrasted with 692,000 a year ago, were especially liberal in the northwest, where the crop outlook was reported good and the chance of rust damage was said to be fading away. Seaboard clearances of wheat and flour were small, equaling only 279,000 bushels.

Considerable strength developed in the wheat market early in the session, owing to Canadian advices of unseasonable cold and because of improved cash business in Minneapolis, and of export buying at Kansas City. All of the gains gradually disappeared, and before the close there was a net decline all round, the decline in July being influenced in part by the material subsidence of the bulge in coarse grain.

Holders of corn indulged in heavy realizing sales. Complaints of crop looses southwest had carried the market sharply higher, but slightly cooler weather in Kansas and Nebraska made owners cautious notwithstanding there were no predictions of rain.

The oats market was governed almost wholly by the action of corn, reacting noticeably after a decided advance.

There was a broad speculative trade in provisions, with excellent cash demand. An advance in the price of hogs kept the market on the up grade.

THE ADVENTURES OF DOTTO, THE WANT AD SCOUT---Getting a Boarding House For Baby.

ATLANTA'S STRIDES FROM DAY TO DAY

All the News of Real Estate and Building.

Not quite six months ago the first steel work on the Hurt building was started. Yesterday it was announced that some of the tenants will move in on September 1. The contractors hope to have the structure completed by October 1, when practically one hundred tenants will move in. There are 400 offices in all, and when the last mechanic has walped out it is expected that many more will be signed for.

Harris White the Man.

The longed-for annual dinner of the Atlanta real estate board will come off on schedule time at Durand's tonight—8:30 o'clock. Inside of the attraction which such a dinner always holds for Atlanta's realty men, the main feature will be the election of officers, particularly a successor to Charles Glover, who retires as president of the body.

"Harris White the Man." That's what a straw vote taken yesterday indicated. And in all probability that will be the result of the election tonight. Also it has been authoritatively stated that the nominating committee will present his name for ratification.

At present Mr. White is vice president of the board, and one of the most prominent realty dealers in the city today. He was formerly connected with the Ralph O. Cochran agency, later going into business for himself. He is a man of affairs in Atlanta—and will make a worthy successor to Charles P. Glover.

Glover Successful President.

Mr. Glover had made a successful president for the Atlanta real estate board. Were it not for the ruling of the board that no president can succeed himself, he would be glad to continue in office. He has been wise, capable, and a good executive.

Railroad Frontage Transfer.

The Southern Wood Preserving company has purchased from the Forrest Park Land company a manufacturing site on the west side of Mickelberry street, north of Hinman street, for $6,800. The tract is about 82x390 feet.

Addition to Church Lot.

Colonel W. L. Peel and others, trustees of St. Mark's church, at the southeast corner of Peachtree and Fifth streets, have purchased from John Boykin a lot adjoining the east side of the church property on East Fifth street, for a consideration of $7,000. The parcel is 40x90 feet. While the deal was made July 14, the papers have just gone on record.

Crematory in Operation Monday.

Sanitary Chief Jentsen hopes to have one of the three burners of the $260,000 city crematory working Monday. The work has been practically completed, all that is now needed being the drying out of the burners.

Whitehall Street Sale.

The Georgia Realty company has sold to William H. Roane No. 467 Whitehall street for a consideration of $19,325. This property is 79 1-3 by 215 feet, on the west side of the street between McDaniel and Humphries streets.

He Gained When He Lost.

Thirteen hundred feet more of Peachtree road frontage went on the realty market Thursday.

Things property, known as the Whitman and Street property, and lying just beyond the eSaboard line, was sold listed with the L. P. Bottenfield agency by J. C. Street, of Opelika, Ala.

Incidentally, Mr. Bottenfield will locate in Atlanta in a short time and out of this property has reserved a site for a handsome $10,000 home.

The Whitman and Street property has been in Mr. Street's possession for about twenty-five or thirty years, Mr. Street said.

"I have been dealing in Atlanta real estate for the last thirty years. I never lost money on Atlanta real estate in my life except when I sold—and then I always made good after a little deep, but a second's thought will drive it home, I reckon."

INOCULIN.

THE wonderful plant food, gathering bacteria for peas, alfalfa and all legume crops. Worth its weight in gold to cold, worn-out land and to make good land better. When applied to seed it gives them the power to make heavy yielding crops, and will add ten times its cost in nitrogen for the next crop. Peas, beans, vetch, alfalfa and all clovers never fail when Inoculin is used. Enough for one acre, $2; five acres, $8. Full instructions how to successfully use with each package. Manufactured by the Southern Inoculin Laboratory, Box 541, Atlanta, Ga.

KING OF BULGARS BEGS FOR PEACE

Ferdinand Cries to His Foes That He Has Enough—Rumanian Troops in 30 Miles of the Bulgarian Capital.

London, July 17.—Rumanian troops are at Plevna and Mesedra, the latter town within thirty miles of Sofia, ank King Ferdinand, of Bulgaria, is suppliant to the king of Rumania for terms of peace.

It is understood that the powers are striving to induce Rumania not to occupy Sofia and are urging Bulgaria to appoint a delegate to confer with the Servian and Greek premiers.

The real facts of the situation are only just becoming generally known in Sofia and are causing dismay among the people. M. Malinoff's efforts to form a cabinet appear to have failed.

Fighting of no great importance continues on the Greek and Servian fronts.

Bulgaria Beset by Foes.

Sofia, Bulgaria, July 17.—The Rumanians today took possession of the cable station at Varna on the Black sea and thus control communication with Constantinople. As the railway between the coast and Sofia has been cut, Bulgaria cannot communicate with the outside world, except through Servia and Rumania.

By forced marches the Turkish army is approaching the town of Kirk-Kilisseh, taken by the Bulgarians after heavy fighting at the beginning of the Balkan war. Many of the population are reported to be fleeing.

An official dispatch reports the defeat by the Bulgarians of the Servian forces which had penetrated Bulgarian territory on the western frontier. The Bulgarians attacked yesterday and put the Servians to flight. The Servians are retreating in the direction of Vlasina, across the border.

Another dispatch says severe losses have been inflicted on the Greek army operating on the Bulgarian flank.

King Ferdinand today personally telegraphed to King Charles of Rumania that Bulgaria was ready to negotiate terms of settlement with Rumania.

WHERE'S MARIE HART, 327-POUND SCHOOL GIRL?

Galesburg, Ill., July 17.—What has become of Marie Hart, Galesburg's 327-pound school girl?

This question worried Galesburg police and relatives of the girl today. Although difficult to believe, information developed by the police led to the conclusion that she was kidnaped.

Marie left home last night, telling her folks she was going to the "movies." She wasn't home by midnight, so her relatives, neighbors and most of the local police force searched all night for her. It was believed the girl was spirited away by show people who wanted her for exhibition purposes. She is 16 years old.

GIRL WAS DAZED AND WORE FEW CLOTHES

Officer Makes Report of Arrest of Two Men Following Arrival of Girl at Hospital.

That Lillie Parker, the young chorus girl who was carried in a cab from the Old Mill theater Wednesday night to Grady hospital, and which she was received in a stupefied and semi-conscious condition, was clad only in gauze underclothes, is contained in a report submitted by Policeman L. H. Milam to Captain W. F. Terry.

Milam states that the actress was unable to talk or even give her name or address. His attention was called to the case by the hospital night clerk, who advised an investigation. His suspicion was aroused by the presence of two men in a cab with a young girl dazed, unable to speak and so scantily garbed.

Following the complaint that has been made by B. T. Glenn and M. F. Smith, the men attached to the theater and who accompanied the girl to Grady and which was filed before Mayor Woodward yesterday afternoon, headquarters officials requested Milam's report.

It is submitted as purely a matter of form. Police officials, in discussing the case, assert that Milam, who has been connected with the force for years, did only his duty in arresting Glenn and Smith to the station for an investigation.

Milam's Report.

His report in part is as follows:

Captain W. F. Terry, Police Headquarters—Dear Sir: About 10:30 p. m., July 16th, I was called to Grady hospital by night clerk, who had been stabbed in the back and while waiting for the wagon to send the patient to headquarters, Mr. Mitchell, the night clerk, told me there was a suspicious case in a hack and advised that I investigated. When we entered the room we found a girl in a semi-conscious condition. She was unable to give her name or address.

I then approached the two men who came with her, and who gave their names as T. B. Glenn and M. F. Smith. They stated to me that the girl had taken sick at the Old Mill theater on Whitehall street, and that she had been subject to convulsions, one after another, since having been taken sick.

I asked them why it was they had not sent her to the hospital before this. It was then about 10:50 p. m. Their reply was that they summoned a doctor and had given her chloroform to try to quiet her. They told them that I looked suspicious and that they should wait so long to send her to a hospital and then bring her in a cab without anything on but a thin underdress.

I do not know what she had on from the waist down, but she did not have anything on but a thin underdress from the waist up. In view of the fact that I was nearly a night with a semi-conscious woman with but little clothes on and brought to the hospital in a hack at that time of night, I thought it best to carry them to headquarters and let Assistant Chief Jett and you, as captain in charge, investigate the case.

RECEIVING STATION FOR PELLAGRA VICTIMS

Spartanburg, S. C., July 16.—Word was received here tonight that the United States public health and marine hospital service will establish a receiving station in Spartanburg for pellagra patients. The announcement is made in a letter from Rupert Blue, surgeon general, to Senator B. R. Tillman, which follows:

"In view of the urgent character of the outbreak of pellagra at Spartanburg, S. C., the necessity of advising in respect to the prevention and treatment of the disease and the opportunity thus afforded to secure patients for purposes of study in the marine hospital being used for pellagra investigations, it is expected that a receiving station or dispensary will be established at Spartanburg. The dispensary will be maintained for some time and will be in charge of an experienced officer. The dispensary will be provided with necessary facilities for such care as is rendered at our patient dispensaries."

More than 400 cases of pellagra here are under the observation of the Thompson-McFadden pellagra commission.

ONE SNIFF OF CHICKEN; HUNGER STRIKE ENDS

Elizabeth, N. J., July 17.—The manner in which Warden Charles W. Dodd, of the county jail, broke up a hunger strike today may set a useful example, for the jail keepers of English prisons who become custodians of suffragettes.

William Turner, a negro prisoner incarcerated last Sunday, sought to gain his liberty by refusing to eat. This morning the negro had been forty-eight hours without food, when Warden Dodd appeared at the cell with a steaming plate of fried chicken and a large section of juicy watermelon. One sniff and Turner's hunger strike came to an abrupt end.

UNIFORM MILEAGE BOOK SOUGHT BY T. P. A. MEN

Philadelphia, July 17.—The Travelers' Protective association has named a railroad committee with instructions to campaign for a uniform mileage book, good on all railroads in the United States. The trunk lines east of the Rocky mountain district have been divided into four additional districts, each represented by a member of the committee. These districts are the south Atlantic states, the states of Ohio, Indiana and Michigan, Texas, Louisiana, Arkansas and Missouri, Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, North and South Dakota, Nebraska and Kansas.

At present about forty mileage books are required in all sections of the country. Some of the railroads favor the project, while others oppose it vigorously. The association hopes to have the uniform book established in the eastern part of the country within the next two years.

STRANGLED TO DEATH ON KERNEL OF CORN

Savannah, Ga., July 17.—The 14-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Harrington, of Ludowici, strangled to death here today as the result of a grain of corn which it swallowed Wednesday at play. The kernel lodged in the child's windpipe and it steadily grew worse until the end came.

WIDOWER WHO REWEDS LOSES DEAD WIFE'S BODY

New York, July 17.—A man who remarries after the death of his wife ceases to bear any relationship to the dead woman and therefore has no control over her body. This in effect was the decision of Justice Philbin, in deciding yesterday that George B. Stone could not remove the body of his wife from a plot in Woodlawn cemetery to a single grave, in order that he might sell the plot.

NO EARLY MOVE TO QUIET MEXICO

President Will Wait Until He Confers With Ambassador. Anti-American Outbreaks Caused by Huerta's Friends.

Washington, July 17.—The administration will make no move in the Mexican situation and will reserve announcement of its future policy toward the Huerta government until after President Wilson and Secretary Bryan have had an opportunity to confer with Ambassador Henry Lane Wilson, now en route to Washington from Mexico City.

Upon the advice and report of conditions which Ambassador Wilson himself presents will depend whether he will return to the Mexican capital.

No answer will be made to the note of one of the European powers about conditions in Mexico until the Washington government has had an opportunity to learn the true state of affairs in the southern republic.

Trying to Force United States.

Administration officials let it be known that they believed the demonstrations in Mexico City recently against Americans were fomented and manufactured by a small group of Mexicans who were trying to force the United States to recognize the Huerta government.

Equally artificial, they believe, were a number of recent happenings in the Mexican capital, and it was suggested that some of the European members of the diplomatic corps in Mexico City had been led through the anti-American manifestations to believe that the chaotil conditions in the republic are results of the Washington government's failure to extend recognition to the Huerta regime.

Supported by letters from unofficial sources in Mexico Washington officials are inclined to treat the information transmitted by some of the Mexico City diplomats to their governments as in the nature of "impressions" and not reports of the real and underlying condition of Mexican affairs.

President Wilson and his cabinet have several close friends in Mexico from whom information has been coming. William Bayard Hale, the writer, is one of those who has been keeping the president in formed about Mexican affairs, but even these unofficial impressions have proved conflicting.

First-Hand Information Needed.

The first step in the policy of securing first-hand information, it was officially explained, is the summoning of Ambassador Wilson. Secretary Bryan, it was announced, would be in Washington when Mr. Wilson arrives, cancelling any lectures that might conflict with the engagement. No criticism is advanced here against Ambassador Wilson for failing to supply all the information desired by the president and his advisors, the difficulties of communication being taken into consideration.

The president has made it clear to those who have discussed it with him that his mind is open on the proper time for recognizing the de facto government in Mexico and there is no definite determination to extend recognition after October elections. It is altogether possible that the United States may await a return to stable conditions, inasmuch as the Carranza rebellion, according to state department reports, is growing rapidly and the constitutionalists admittedly control so large a portion of the Mexican republic.
